'Interim Families' Aid Teenagers in Need of Temporary Homes

Kids who aren't wanted anywhere, kids with no place to go..

Or a young person who has to have a temporary place until that first important paycheck comes through, and "the" apartment comes along.

"Project Interim," set up by the YWCA but open to males and females alike, is beginning to fill these interim needs in Princeton and West Windsor. For years, people with an eye and a heart have been talking about a Halfway House for youth. But under a new state law, you cannot mix kids who have been through the police and court system with youngsters who have simply run away or who just need a place to stay until it all blows over.

Since there aren't enough young people in either category to support two Halfway Houses, "Project Interim" seems to be an answer.

The Y has 11 Interim families---eight in Princeton and three in West Windsor---who will take in a boy or girl for a maximum of 30 days while a tangled family situation is being straightened out.

During that period, the child's own family talks it all over with Family Service, Community Guidance or whatever agency seems appropriate. The Interim family gets advice and help from Jeffra Nandan, social worker at the Y, who runs Project Interim.

"Sometimes kids just walk into the Y and ask for help," Ms. Nandan reports. "'My parents won't talk to me,' they'll say, or 'My mother is drunk all the time and I'm alone with her and I don't know what to do.'"

The youngsters are mostly 13 to 15 years old, sometimes the shuttlecock in a game of custody when there has been a divorce. Neither parent wants the kid around--where to go?

But often it's older youth who check in at the Y for help. Young adults, 18 and over, just starting a new job, or even job-hunting.

"'Know of any rooming-houses?' they'll ask me," and Ms. Nandan smiles, wishing there were more rooming-houses, "or, they think the Princeton Y is like Ys in big cities, with temporary rooms to rent. We get a lot of these."

Although Interim's age bracket is 11 to 17, Ms. Nandan did stretch the limit for two young adults who were 18-plus. One found a place to live through a Princeton church; the other, through Corner House and the Y, found an Interim family.

"It depends on the Interim family--some are willing to take the older kids," Ms. Nandan has found.

Interim families are all kinds. Some are older couples whose children have grown and moved on. "They're used to caring for kids, maybe they've had foreign exchange students, or have taken care of a friend's child," Ms. Nandan says.

Return of Gypsy Moths to 70-Acre Tract on Mt. Lucas Road Among Varied Problems Township Committee Seeks to Solve

Gypsy moths, the Sameric theatre chain or the Stony Brook Sewer Authority--it was hard to tell in Township Hall Monday night who the favorite villain was.

At least, it wasn't Township Committee. In past years, when the capital budget has been up for public hearing, Committee has been tongue-lashed, but this year residents were in a mellow mood and after a relatively calm hearing, Committee announced that it will incorporate some changes and then adopt the non-binding budget at the April 19 Committee meeting.

Gypsy moths infest 70 acres along Mt. Lucas from the pipeline north to Poor Farm Road. Just how heavily, nobody seems to know and the state official with the facts in his pocket won't be back in his office until this Friday, Committee was told.

Residents, polled by Administrator Joseph R. Nini, say they want the Township to join the state's Sevin spraying program. It will cost $6 an acre, or $420, of which the state re-imburses the Township 75 percent.

However, the Township's Environmental Commission wishes Sevin didn't have to be used: gypsy moths eventually develop resistance to the poison and it kills indiscriminately, including in its sweep the parasites imported a few years ago to live off gypsy moths and eventually bring about their downfall.

Opinions Differ. Judith Nielsen, Mt. Lucas Road resident and a former member of the Environmental Commission, reported a conversation with state entomologists who are relatively content about the Township's gypsy moth population, and feel that a good balance has been achieved between gypsy and parasite.

Mrs. Nielsen doesn't like Sevin. She prefers controlling the moths with a bacterial control known as B-T. But the state won't use B-T, presumably because it takes too much time and the state is geared to Sevin. Also, it is said to be more expensive, but Mrs. Nielsen said state entomologists told her it isn't much more than Sevin.

Mayor Jay Bleiman said he wanted to sign up with the state. It's cheaper, he said, and if the infestation is heavy, that's a factor. He pointed out that people who want to use B-T can still find a commercial sprayer. The state's procedures allow a municipality to withdraw before actual apraying begins, he said, but it is necessary to get in line just in case.

Elizabeth Hutter cast the only "no" vote. She expressed fears that the Township would be inundated by property-owners who want to be sprayed. She said this should be a one-time application on this tract only. If B-T is used, she said, the Township should share the cost with property-owners.

On the emergency resolution needed to provide $600 for the program, Mrs. Hutter reluctantly joined in the unanimous vote. It had to be unanimous: by law, Mr. Nini said, emergency appropriations require two-thirds vote and the vacant, fifth chair is regarded, for this particular purpose, as filled.

Movies. Unreeling a scroll of names as long as "Gone With the Wind," Betty Fussell announced to Township Committee that she had 2,500 signatures of movie-goers unhappy with Playhouse and Garden, as run by the Sameric theatre chain. Princeton University, owner of the two theatres through its ownership of Palmer Square, has leased the two to Sameric for ten years.

"The University says the function of its town properties is to make a profit," Mrs. Fussell reported, and she asked Committee, with Borough Council, to protest to the University.

"The University can only break that lease by tearing down the buildings," Mayor Bleiman told her, but he agreed that someone--not himself because he's on the University staff--should join with the Borough to protest.

"No point in a boycott," Mrs. Fussell said, "they're not making their money in Princeton. And McCarter is no answer: the sound there is bad; actually, there is no 35-mm facility on campus."

Sewers. "One colossal disaster," is the way William Cherry characterized the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority's plans. He urged Committee to withdraw the Township because the Authority, "Is foisting on the taxpayers one of the most expensive sewer systems conceived by the mind of man."

Mayor Bleiman said the state imposed a regional sewer on Princeton. "There is no escape for us," he said, sadly, adding that Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley and he are equally frustrated.

"We don't know what the facts are!" the mayor exclaimed, "How has it all managed to fall apart?"

He commented on the state's reversal of its commitments and requirements and asked Mr. Nini to set up a fact-finding meeting with members of the Authority.

"The towns are helpless as shrimp in a net," observed Committee member Margaret Broadwater.

"I wouldn't be against entertaining your suggestion," Committee member Josie Hall told Dr. Cherry.

Hutter's Suggestion for Interim Appointment To Fill Township Seat Rejected by Committee

Puzzled, but still polite, Township Committee declined to accept Monday night the suggestion of colleague Elizabeth Hutter that a temporary appointment be made to tide Committee over until the Appelate Court decides how that empty fifth Committee seat should be filled.

The case will go before the court Monday, April 26. Township attorney Gordon Griffin estimated it will be "one or two months" before the Court reaches a decision, and tells Princeton Township how that seat is to be filled.

"Things are piling up and aren't getting done because we are short-handed," Republican Hutter said. If the court orders a special election, she continued, it could be four to six weeks longer before the fifth member is seated. She asked Mr. Griffin to petition the court to grant Township Committee power to make a temporary appointment.

The case is before the court because Republicans appealed the decision of Superior Court Judge George Y. Schoch that Committee could appoint a Democrat to fill the seat. It was originally held by Abbot Low Moffat, a Democrat, who ran for re-election last November. Because a defective voting machine gave him only one vote, he apparently lost the election to Republican Tod Peyton.

Legality Questioned. "I could ask Judge Schoch of course," Mr. Griffin replied, "but I think he would say, 'I told you in November you had authority to make the appointment.' Besides, if Peyton is declared to have won the election, would the actions of your appointee in the interim be legal?"

Mr. Griffin said he thought it would be confusing to break in someone new for a few weeks, then perhaps have to begin again after the court's decision. He said he regarded the possibility of a special election as "remote."

Mrs. Hutter's colleagues on Committee -- even her fellow Republican Josie Hall, who explained she'd been out of town -- said they were surprised at her proposal. Mrs. Hutter explained that it had been in her mind for some time, but had been put aside in the press of working on the school budget.

It has been learned that the Republicans' attorney, Edward Meredith, is the one who asked the court to hear oral argument. Democrats have speculated privately that this might have been a delaying move.

Interim Families

"Others are young families with little children or teen-agers. One is a newly-married couple without kids -- the wife is a social-worker interested in our program. We've got single people, too – divorced or widowed women. This seems to work especially well with teen-age girls, or with any kid who is hungry for a lot of individual attention, or with kids who need to be by themselves and free of even normal problems that come up if there are kids in the family."

Time to Cool off. Often, social workers find, a breathing space, a cooling-off time away from home, can relieve a simmering situation and keep it from reaching the boiling point. Also, valuable though the program is, Interim can be a kind of therapeutic threat.

"We suggest that the child go to live with an Interim family, and often this makes the natural family say, well, maybe we could try harder, and the child does remain at home and together they work things out."

Interim is careful about placing its boys and girls.

"We don't want to put a 13-year-old girl in a home with another 13-year-old girl who goes to the same school," she points out. "This is a small town, after all, and we don't want families who work together or know one another," to be in this situation. We might bring a West Windsor child to live with a Princeton family, for example. Confidentiality is very important."

The kids come from all kinds of families, because divorce, alcoholism, failure to communicate cut across all the lines of social position and poverty or affluence. Older kids, Ms. Nandan has found, are usually middle-income whites.

Younger ones come from a wider range of backgrounds -- "from everywhere". Curiously, Ms. Nandan doesn't know why, there have been no referrals from the black community.

Supervision Provided. A committee of adult experts meets regularly to talk about kids: Juvenile Officers Douglas Watson Jr. from the Borough, Anthony Pinelli from the Township, John Henchen from West Windsor, Lt. Richard Steiner from the Township, plus school and agency representatives.

"They're saying we have fewer run-aways than we used to," Ms. Nandan reports. "You can't hitch across the country and find jobs everywhere just waiting for you, the way you used to. The food at home begins to look pretty good."

But summer is coming, and experienced police officers say the situation with stray youngsters is always worse then.

"It goes in cycles; they tell us, 'We'll be calling you every night in a couple of months', they say," and Ms. Nandan hopes to be ready.

Interim could use more host families this summer, while regular Interim families are away on vacation, or if the need is indeed suddenly great.

This will be the first summer for Interim. It's a one-year pilot program, and has only been operating since November. It grew from the 1974 report on youth commissioned by the Council of Community Services. A halfway-house kind of shelter was recommended in that report, and the Council studied the question under a $400 grant from the Unitarian Church.

The Princeton Youth Fund then contributed money for development of a pilot program of interim homes. The Y was immediately interested, and the Council transferred to the Y about $1,500 of its Youth Fund grant to get Interim started. Anonymous individual donors also support Interim.

"This isn't a program of huge numbers," Ms. Nandan says, "and that means state and Federal funding probably isn't available. They don't think programs are worthwhile unless they are huge. But we want to use community resources. We'll keep going, as long as the program seems needed."

EGG HUNTS PLANNED

For Saturday. Two Easter Egg Hunts, one on Broadmead Field and one in Montgomery, have been planned for Saturday.

The Princeton Lions Club is the sponsor of a hunt for children up to age 12 on the former Princeton Country Day School Field on Broadmead Saturday at 10:30. Bruce Perone is chairman of the event. There will be prizes for all; in case of rain, the hunt will be postponed to the following Saturday.

The Montgomery Woman's Club will hold its ninth annual Easter Egg Hunt at 10:30 on the grounds of the Orchard Road School for children age 3 through third grade. Participants should bring their own container in which to hold candy and eggs and perhaps a prize. Awards will be made to 3 and 4 year olds; kindergarteners and first graders; and second and third graders for first, second and third place each. Mrs. William Baker is chairman, and the rain-date is also April 17.

TO HIRE CONSULTANT

School Board Agrees. The school board voted unanimously Tuesday night to retain an outside consultant to put together an administrative structure for the schools. J.B. Smith was the absent board member.

The action was taken over the strenuous objection of Superintendent Philip E. McPherson. He read the board a letter from the state administrators association which states that the association does not approve of jobs "superimposed" on a superintendent's job.

"We're not sure about the kind of advice we get from you – as we have stated many times before," said board president Dietrich Myerhofer, and he said board counsel, Thomas Cook, believes it is legal and appropriate to hire a consultant.

Board member Joan Doig told Dr. McPherson his proposals weren't satisfactory. The board hadn't been sufficiently specific about what it wanted, Dr. McPherson retorted, and Mrs. Doig said, "If the board had total faith, it wouldn't raise the question of consultants."

Hannah Fox said the superintendent had done a lot of work, the board had done a lot of thinking and there was no "meeting of minds."

Earlier, Dr. McPherson said the board's assignment of duties to personnel director and a staff development teacher mean the people involved would need certificates in such fields as assistant superintendent for instruction or general supervisory work and this would be expensive. The board agreed not to fill at once the personnel job to be vacated by Wesley Johnson. Dr. McPherson proposed assigning Dr. Johnson's work to a team.

REVALUATION?

"Please!" Urges Assessor. Stuart Robson, assessor for both Borough and Township, appealed to Township Committee Monday night to revalue property in the municipality.

He warned that Mercer County may force municipalities to revalue after May 1, particularly towns like Princeton Borough where assessments are far out of line with the true market value of the property. Mr. Robson said he would like Borough and Township to revalue at the same time adding that he doesn't know how Borough Council feels on the matter.

Tuesday morning, Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley told his press conference he was in favor of revaluation.

"The economics support it," he said, "you pick up some rateables you don't now have, and if you don't do it, you can lose tax revenue."

The mayor said he realized it would mean "some trauma" for some people, but he said the previous Borough revaluation in 1964, didn't seem to have hurt property-owners.

Mr. Robson told the Township the cost would be $15 to $20 for each of the Township's 4,000 "line items" -- that is, pieces of property. A scaled-down method using old measurements but still calling for inspection of every house, would cost only $10, he estimated.

BACK TO JOHNSON PARK

For Institute Pupils. Newcomers to the Institute for Advanced Study -- or their children, at any rate -- will attend Johnson Park School next fall instead of Community Park, where Institute progeny are now assigned. Children from the Institute area now at Community Park -- having been moved there from Johnson Park -- don't have to go back if they don't want to.

The action was taken last week at the school board meeting. Children from the Institute had been transferred out of Johnson Park because the school was over-crowded. That situation has now eased.

HI! REMEMBER ME? Who could forget? It It's the Township's old friend the Gypsy Moth, shown here in pre-moth costume. Little do these ladies know that Township Committee has vowed, one way or another to do them in. Story, page one.

The board also accepted a petition from parents asking that Student Services staff members be assigned to schools on a need basis. The parents say that assignment on any other basis places an unfair burden on schools like Community Park which have "a relatively high incidence" of students who need special service.

WANT TO SERVE?

On Rent Board. The Borough is looking for a tenant representative to serve on its Rent Leveling Board, Mayor Robert W. Cawley said this week. Any Borough renter who is interested is invited to call Borough Hall, 924-3119.

The board will meet next Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Borough Hall. Members will discuss the possibility of filing complaints against landlords who have not filed the required annual report forms.

CARTER, UDALL

One for Each. Two well-known Princeton Democrats came out on opposite sides of the primary battle this week. State Senator Anne C. Martindell has announced her support for Jimmy Carter and Fred M. Bohen, who ran unsuccessfully for Congress in 1974, has declared himself for Morris Udall.

Senator Martindell said she will run as a delegate pledged to Carter at this Saturday's Democratic district mini-convention. She was chairman of the 1972 New Jersey State Delegation to the Democratic National Convention and was chairman of the state's McGovern presidential campaign.

The mini-conventions, Mr. Bohen pointed out, are open to any registered Democrat. They will be held in every legislative district throughout New Jersey, and an Affirmative Action Program pledged by the New Jersey Democratic State Committee, Mr. Bohen said, will "insure the fullest participation by all Democrats."

New Jersey's primary is June 8.

smaller diamonds valued at $1700 and a second ring valued at $700 were reported stolen Friday by a Hawthorne Avenue resident.

There were no signs of forced entry and the investigation by Ptl. William Fitch is centering around those who had access to the house. The rings were taken from a bedroom, police said.

An 8-track FM stereo player and two speakers valued at $140 were taken between 11:10 and 1:05 Sunday morning from an unlocked car parked on Patton Avenue, and a Nassau Street resident reported the theft of his $230 35mm camera while he was asleep on a Suburban bus.

Last week it was a rare $100 cedar tree; this week a Park Place resident reported the theft of a 7-foot, $60 rubber plant from a front porch.

A University student listed the theft of a $25 battery while his car was parked in front of 184 Witherspoon Street, and another undergraduate lost $12 after his tan leather waliet was taken from the glove compartment of his car parked in a Prospect Avenue lot. Entry was gained through an unlocked vent window, police said.

In the Township, a car owned by Robert Sturken, 106 Balcourt Drive, was entered between 12:30 and 9 Sunday morning by a thief who removed an 8-track stereo and two speakers. Mr. Sturken's loss: $150. The car was unlocked.

The cables were cut to remove a $42 battery from a car parked Saturday evening in the Opinion Research Corporation lot off N. Harrison Street. The victim was identified as Constance Agabitti of Ringoes.

HOME IS ENTERED

On Leigh Avenue. The home of John M. Harrison, 39 Leigh Avenue, was entered between 5 and 11:45 Friday by an intruder who forced open a rear kitchen door.

Taken from various rooms in the house were a trumpet, clarinet, watch and stereo turntable. The value of the stolen articles was $410. Ptl. David Cromwell investigated.

Township police also report the entry last week into the Little Brook School, where a coffee vending machine in a teacher's lounge was broken into. An attempt was also made to force open a soda machine.

Police said that their investigation revealed that entry was gained through a window in a hallway across from the lounge. The amount of change taken was unknown.

TWO ARE FINED

For Speeding. Two area residents were fined Monday in Borough traffic court for speeding.

Arthur Gorham, 217 Witherspoon Hall, Princeton University, paid $15, and Eric R. Schirber, 2 Sycamore Lane, Skillman, paid $27.

DRIVER TICKETED

For Failing to Yield. Betty J. Ammirati, 21 of South Ozone Park, N.Y. was ticketed for failing to yield the right of way Saturday, after she allegedly turned into the path of another car at the intersection of Snowden Lane and Route 27.

A passenger in the Ammirati car, Robert Eimicki, and the second driver, Betty B. Preston, 22 Carnegie Drive, both sustained lacerations of the face. Ms. Ammirati complained of pain to her arm. All were treated at Princeton Medical Center. Ptl. John Clausen investigated.

BEDROOM DAMAGED

In Pardee Circle Fire. A general alarm was sounded a few minutes before noon Friday for a fire at the home of Roland W. Smith Jr., 38 Pardee Circle, which caused heavy damage to an upstairs bedroom. Police said that cause of the blaze was still undetermined.

A son, Jeffrey Smith, was home at the time but police report there were no injuries. The house also sustained heavy smoke damage, especially to the upstairs.

DELEGATES SELECTED

To GOP National Convention. Delegates and alternates to the Republican National Convention to be held next August in Kansas City have been selected to represent Mercer County Republicans, Nancy Schluter, County Chairman, has announced. They were chosen in an open meeting of the Republican Executive Committee to which members of the press and a representative from Common Cause were invited.

Those selected as delegates from Mercer County are Mayor John Rafferty of Hamilton Township and Charles Roll, Lawrence Township Municipal Chairman for the GOP, in the 4th Congressional District. Alternate delegates for that district will be Charles Stults, a longtime Republican leader in Hightstown, and Al Bonacci, administrator for Hamilton Township.

For the 5th Congressional District, which includes Princeton Township and Borough and West Windsor, Mark Ellsworth, a 21 year old Georgetown University student, was selected alternate delegate. In the 13th Congressional District which includes Ewing, Pennington, Hopewell Township and Borough, Regina Meredith, Republican State Committeewoman and former freeholder, will be the alternate delegate.

HOUSE WINDOW BROKEN

Early In the Morning. John R. Firms, 600 Mercer Road, told police last week that a large rock had been thrown through a living room window of his home at 1:55 in the morning by the occupants of a car who then drove off on Mercer toward town.

Police said there was no description of the car. The rock weighed 25 pounds.

An employee of Princeton Medical Center reported that the left rear window of her car bad been smashed while it was parked during the night in a hospital lot. Nothing was taken from her car, police said.

Mounting Damage from Mini-Bikes Will Result In Ordinance Governing Their Use in Township

Mini-bikes have become a maxi-problem in Princeton Township. When Township Committee meets in work session next Monday, members will talk over an ordinance prohibiting mini-bikes on public property, and before long, those happy afternoons of roaring through the woods and over the fields will be part of the past.

"They did several hundred dollars' damage to trees on the north side of Community Park," says Police Chief Fred Porter, shaking his head sadly, "and it's so dangerous! The kids have cut down trees maybe 20 feet high to make racing paths. They build their own jumps, there's no supervision, they ruined the terrain – just chewed it up."

A mini-bike is a carefully defined tool. It falls in the category of motorcycle under state law, and a motorcycle is defined as a vehicle having a maximum speed above 25 miles an hour.

A mini-bike is not a moped, Chief Porter explains. A moped is a bike with a motor ("maximum piston displacement of 50 cubic centimeters") and its maximum speed is 20 miles an hour. So far, the newly popular moped is not a problem. It is probably, the chief suspects darkly, waiting in the underbrush to BECOME a prnblem.

Licenses Optional. You can license a mini-bike, but you don't have to, unless you're going to use it on a road. Kids too young for licenses buy them, take them off to private or Township-owned property and let loose.

The Township's many Open Space Lands -- without an irate property-owner to appear suddenly and spoil all the fun – are the most popular tracks for mini-bike owners. After all, it's public property, isn't it?

Chief Porter says the Van Dyke-Wight Open Space lands on Snowden Lane, the path linking Rosedale Road to Edgerstoune, the Transco pipeline at Princeton Community Village, Cherry Hill near the Unitarian Church, Stony Brook's banks behind the houses on Hun Road -- are all favorite hang-outs.

"Tracking them through the woods is rough, and we've known unofficially they were there, in places like Van Dyke," acknowledges Juvenile Officer Anthony Pinelli. "When we found a stolen motorcycle, new paths cut and trees cut down in Van Dyke-Wight, we put a stop to it, and said, 'No motorized vehicles allowed.'"

Feeling that they were being squeezed out, a group of youths, led by Joseph Jacobs, Jeff Marcantonio, Rick Hasson and Robert Ellerstein, approached Sgt. Pinelli for advice on how to go about getting a track of their own. Sgt. Pinelli advised them to line up as much parental support as possible, get as many petition signatures as possible, and approach Township Committee.

Petition Signed. They got about 50 signatures on the petition -- and Sgt. Pinelli estimates that's about how many mini-bikes there are in town -- and Committee asked police and recreation officials to see what they could do about getting trail space for the mini-bikers.

Chief Porter, Sgt. Pinelli, recreation director Donald Barr, recreation assistant Denise King and assistant Township administrator Michael Taylor met last December, but the results were negative.

"It's just not advisable," Chief Porter says, "the danger, the liability, supervision problem. We've got national figures showing the high rate of bone fractures, cuts, contusions -- why, those things can go up to 50-60 miles an hour!"

Chief Porter checked three nearby towns where mini-bikes trails had been built by the municipality. The towns found that parental interest waned after a time, and this meant supervision did, too. Insurance was a problem, accidents frequent. One nearby community has two civil suits on its hands, filed by parents of injured boys.

Sgt. Pinelli recalls a West Windsor farmer who let boys use his land. The youths policed their own club and screened anyone who wanted to join. Disgruntled boys who had been rejected, Sgt. Pinelli reports, vandalized the bikes housed in a garage, and the farmer reluctantly decided to tell the boys they had to leave.

Meanwhile, of course, there is that moped, just waiting. The moped can be driven by very young kids, it doesn't have to be registered, you don't have to wear a helmet to ride it. It can be ridden anywhere except on interstate and primary highways. The state hasn't said what a "primary" highway is, but Chief Porter thinks Washington Road, Rosedale, Witherspoon, Nassau and Route 206 definitely are.

Also, and this gives the Chief nightmares sometimes: Princeton's bike ordinances, Borough and Township, say that only two-wheel devices PROPELLED BY HUMAN POWER are allowed on Princeton's bike paths.

Where does this leave the owner of a new moped?

"There's a lot to be ironed out....." says the Chief.

FUNDS SOUGHT

For Robeson Awards. In order to raise money for the Paul Robeson Memorial Fund which will be used to make four awards to youths who show outstanding promise and achievement in four areas in which Robeson himself excelled, "shares" in the Fund are being offered at $5 each.

According to Dr. Benjamin Wright, coordinator of the Paul Robeson Memorial, buying a share will entitle the donor to a copy of Robeson's autobiography, "Here I Stand," as well as mementos of the memorial events of the past 10 days. The first announcement of one of the winners of the youth awards is expected to be made Friday at the celebration in honor of Robeson's 78th birthday planned by the Youth Center and to be held at the John Witherspoon School auditorium at 8.

To contribute to the fund and buy a share, send a check made out to the Paul Robeson Memorial Fund to Dr. Wright at 50 Overbrook Drive or contribute Friday night at the celebration, where copies of the autobiography will be available.

PROCEDURE CHANGED

In Primary Voting. The Princeton Area League of Women Voters has called attention to a change in primary voting procedures mandated by the New Jersey Legislature. As it pertains to this year's primary election, to be held on June 8, the law provides that any registered voter wishing to vote in the opposite party from his last primary vote must file with the municipal clerk or county board of elections a declaration of the party he intends to vote in, by April 19.

For example, if an individual voted in the Republican party's primary the last time he voted in a primary election, regardless of how long ago that was, and wishes to vote in June in the Democratic primary, he must file a declaration. This is done by obtaining a card either by mail or in person from the municipal clerk or the county board of election, completing and returning it.

The New Jersey Secretary of State's office suggests that if you are uncertain of your party registry, you file a declaration of the party you wish to vote in, in order to be assured that your vote is counted. To obtain further information, call the League of Women Voters at 924-1721 or 394-3303.

TO DEVELOP FARM

As Historical Exhibit. The Mercer County Parks Commission has selected the Princeton firm of Geddes Brecher Qualls Cunningham: Architects to plan the development of Howell Farm as a living historical farm and museum. Located near Titusville, the farm will become an operating historical exhibit of American farming techniques during the period 1920-1940.

Geddes Brecher Qualls Cunningham's initial planning will study the development and operation of the farm, and will culminate in a report to the Parks Commission outlining the best public uses and design of the facility. Serving Mercer County and the region, Howell Farm will include teaching exhibits of New Jersey farming, gardening, and farm workshops. For future generations, Howell Farm will be a unique view of New Jersey's pastoral life and landscape.

Geddes Brecher Qualls Cunningham: Architects are also currently planning Liberty State Park, Jersey City. Other projects of the Princeton architectural firm include urban redevelopment in Corning, New York; Stockton State College, Pomona, New Jersey; and master planning for Trinity Church in Princeton.

BOOK SALE APRIL 28

An Annual Bryn Mawr Event. Thousands of books at bargain prices will go on sale April 28 in Borough Hall Gym in the 45th Annual Bryn Mawr Book Sale. A benefit for the Bryn Mawr Scholarship Fund, the sale will continue through May 1.

Books will still be accepted at the rear of 32 Vandeventer Avenue Sunday between 2 and 3 and on Wednesday from 9 to 11:30. This event annually has more books for sale than are in the public library's collection.

The night before the sale, Tuesday, April 27, from 6 until 8 will be Children's Night, and only unaccompanied youngsters will be allowed into the gym to pick their own books. The sale will open the next day at noon and continue until 9.

Thursday and Friday, April 29 and 30, the hours will be 9 to 9, with books at half price all Friday. On Saturday from 9 until noon, the remaining books will be sold on an all-you-can-carry-in-a-carton-for-$1 basis.

Strong Protest against Plan to Close Blawenburg Post Office Made by Fenwick

Representative Millicent Fenwick (R., 5th Dist., N.J.) has strongly urged Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar oot to close the Blawenburg Post Office, one of many small ones in the nation that is scheduled to be eliminated by the Postal Service as an economy measure.

Mrs. Fenwick stressed that "the Postal Service's need for economy is well understood, 13 cents is a lot to pay for a letter and we certainly do not want to see the cost go any higher," but she noted that the Blawenburg Post Office is not operating in the red. It reported a profit of over $8,000 for 1975.

Mrs. Fenwick also noted that representatives of the Postal Service had said in a January 28, 1975, meeting that both the Skillman and Blawenburg post offices would remain separate, although they are located within a mile of each other. The Postal Service officials cited the need for town identity behind this decision. The Blawenburg community feels that this reasoning should now be applied to their post office.

Mrs. Fenwick urged Mr. Bailar to "reconsider most carefully the decision to close the Blawenburg Post Office. It has the full support of the community and is an asset to Blawenburg and the Postal Service, not a liability. I hope that in this Bicentennial year, the people of Blawenburg will not be forced to feel that their town's history has lost its identity, submerged in a wave of impersonal, far-away Federal decisions."

$5 A TREE SOUGHT

In Arbor Day Program. Arbor Day in West Windsor will take place Saturday, April 10, in the triangular area between the high school and the tennis courts on Hightstown Road. The West Windsor Recreation and Environmental Commissions are again requesting donations from organizations and individuals; the West Windsor Lions Club has already given $50 and the West Windsor Garden Club $15.

Specific trees will be planted in a landscape plan developed by John Obal of Obal's Garden Mart. Trees will be purchased at wholesale prices with each tree averaging about $5. Any organization or individual who would like to donate a tree may do so by mailing $5 for each tree donated to: Arbor Day Program, c-o Bernt Midland, 1 Rumford Way, Princeton Junction.

Each tree planted will have a tag with the name of the tree, the date planted and the name of the person or organization that donated it. For answers to questions on the Arbor Day program call 799-1642.

THREE HONORED

For Service to Humanities. Princeton University Saturday evening conferred on three of the most distinguished members of its faculty in the humanities departments the first annual Howard T. Behrman Awards. The presentations, made by Princeton President William G. Bowen, recognize distinguished achievement in research, publication, teaching, or other notable service to the University community.

Carlos Baker, the biographer of Ernest Hemiogway and Princeton's Woodrow Wilson Professor of Literature; Lawrence Stone, the University's Dodge Professor of History and director of the Shelby Cullom Davis Center for Historical Studies; and Gregory Vlastos, Stuart Professor of Philosophy, were the initial recipients of the Behrman Awards, each of which carries a stipend of $2,500. Although on leave in London for the current academic year, Professor Vlastos was on hand for the presentations.

The awards were established in 1975 with a gift from Dr. Howard T. Behrman, a noted New York dermatologist whose avocation is book collecting. Born in Woodbine, N.J., Dr. Behrman is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania and of the New York University Medical College. He has been a professor of dermatology at several medical schools and is the author of articles and textbooks on the subject.

Since 1973, he has been living in Princeton as well as in New York City; he has become a member of the council of the Friends of Princeton University Library and of the Advisory Council of the Department of English. He presented to the University in 1974 the manuscript of what is acknowledged to be the first American novel, "Father Bombo's Pilgrimage to Mecca." It was written in Nassau Hall on the Princeton campus in 1770 by two students, Philip Freneau and Hugh Brackenridge.

In establishing the awards, Dr. Behrman said that he wanted "to reach beyond the area of book collecting, to encourage the authors and users of books in the American educational system."

Selecting the humanistic disciptioes, Dr. Behrman hopes "to emphasize the great need in today's world for the values one absorbs from the study of literature, the arts, philosophy and religion. At a time when great discoveries continue to be made in the sciences, and research abounds in the social sciences, we must not forget the important work that our humanists are doing in the classroom, in the rare book libraries and in new educational programs on the campus. These awards are specifically designed to bring this work to the attention of the public and to encourage more of it from the members of the Princeton faculty."

APRIL PROGRAMS LISTED

At Rocky Hill Library. The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill will present a variety of special programs in April. For students in grades 1-4, there will be a spring story hour program on Monday at 3:45.

On Tuesday the library will give an Easter egg decorating demonstration for adults from 10 until noon. Wednesday evening at 7:30 a feature film starring George C. Scott as a famous American general of World War II will be shown. (Due to distributor's restrictions, the library is not permitted to give the title of the film.)

The magician Dennis Kowal will appear in a special Bicentennial Magic Show for children of all ages on Tuesday, April 20, at 1. All programs are free and open to the public. For further information, call the library at 924-7073.

HUN MOTHERS AUXILIARY: President Mrs. Victor Rizzi, (seated) confers with Mrs. Richerd D. Seiler (left) end Mrs. Elizabeth Steele, committee members for the auxiliary-sponsored Dinner Dance May 8 to benefit the scholarship fund.

DINNER DANCE PLANNED

To Benefit Hun School. A committee of Hun School mothers is preparing the traditional Spring Garden evening at which funds are raised for the benefit of the school's scholarship fund. Mrs. C. Barnwell Straut aod Mrs. Edward J. McCabe, Jr., are co-chairmen, assisted by Mrs. Victor Rizzi, president of the Mothers Auxiliary.

Saturday, May 8, has been chosen for the gathering. Festivities will begin at 7 in the Athletic Center where parents will be served cocktails and hors d'oeuvres and be greeted by Headmaster Paul Chesebro, Mrs. Chesebro and the committee, who will present Headmaster-elect Thomas W. Woodward, Jr. and Mrs. Woodward.

A buffet will follow, music for dancing will intersperse the courses and continue until 1 a.m. Welcoming torches, twinkling lights and trellises, will augment the garden atmosphere which will feature trees, flowers and yellow and white linens.

Invitations are now in the mail and early reservations are advised. Parents who do not make up tables with friends or guests may request to sit with parents of their child's class. Mrs. Paul H. Plough, Jr., and Mrs. John Maddock are chairmen of invitations. Patrons are being listed by Mrs. George H. Gallup, III, and reservations are being received by Mrs. Richard K. Paynter, III.

Staging and decorating are being directed by Mrs. John P. Murray and Mrs. Richard D. Seiler. Mrs. James J. Hughes, Jr., is chairman of food. Hostesses for the evening are being listed by Mrs. Bob M. Olson and Mrs. H.L. Boyer Royal.

Mrs. George Claffey, Jr., is secretary for the committee, and Mrs. Elizabeth Steele is publicity chairman. C. Barnwell Straut is treasurer of the benefit, H.L. Boyer Royal is chairman of the Fathers' Committee, and Theodore McNulty and Gerald Donaldson are faculty advisors.

WALKING TOUR SUNDAY

Of Jugtown Area. Final plans have been made for the walking tour of Jugtown, an old Princeton neighborhood, sponsored by the Historical Society this Palm Sunday, from 4 - 8. Eight homes will be open to the public, including "The Captain's House" on Queenston Place, Evelyn College, "Queens Court," "The Honeymoon House," and the Margerum, Drury and Updike homes.

Mrs. Clifton C. Bennett and Mrs. Robert L. Hoke, co-chairmen, consider this walking tour unique in that the emphasis is on the preservation of 17th and 18th century homes, and how such properties have been adapted to contemporary use. Queens Court, also known as the Bowers building, has in the past been a private residence, a grocery store, and an annex to Evelyn College (which is itself now a two-family dwelling).

Another example is the office of Dr. Alfred S. Cook Jr., which has been in Mrs. Cook's family for over seven generations and is now a modern medical office. The guides in this house are all descendants of the Margerum family and represent four generations.

Students from Princeton High School will point out interesting features such as original brick driveways and the oldest tree in Princeton. Tickets are available at Bainbridge House, 158 Nassau Street, at $7.50. Proceeds are used to support activities of the Historical Society.

PROGRAM FOR MEN SET

In Assertive Tratning. Family Service Agency has announced that it will offer an eight-week assertive training program for men Monday evenings from 7:30 to 9 at 120 John Street. To begin April 19 and continue through June 14, it will compliment the assertive training the Agency offers for women in association with the Women's Place. Paul Kirland, executive director, will lead the group.

Enrollment will be limited to 12. Advance registration and prepayment of the $60 fee is required, and early registration is recommended. Another program for men is planned for the fall.

IT'S NEW
To Us

NEW AND UNIQUE

At Princeton Gift Shop. Every once in a while a truly unique gift item appears on the scene, and currently Princeton Gift Shop has such in the form of antique English wooden letters. With many different type styles and sizes being represented, the window display of these letters is quite handsome and shouldn't be missed.

Originally these were used in a Salisbury print shop during the mid-nineteenth century. The shop itself was torn down some years ago, but the letters were salvaged by the owner, who now happens to be a Princeton resident.

Made of a heavy dark wood, they would be particularly interesting as part of a wall arrangement, as bookends, paperweights or even as an identifying symbol outside your office or front door. Because they were used for printing purposes, the letters are of course backwards which only increases their interest.

In general they are priced by the inch, with one approximately a foot in size costing $27.50, although the punctuation marks are slightly more expensive. As Kay Mohrman who is on the staff here commented, "They are not cheap, but then they cannot be duplicated either."

This same Englishman is also responsible for steel engravings that can be made from any black and white glossy print you might have. These are then mounted on a piece of cork, and like the wooden letters they make excellent wall hangings.

The possibilities here are clearly shown by the two samples which contain intricate line detail of a knight in armour and of a cathedral window. However, any subject can be used, and each costs $50.

A Charming Print. Also new, and most intriguing, is Walter Bruhns' charming print, "Spring Song - Fantasia Animalia." Using authentic Spring colorings, Mr. Bruhns (a senior citizen from the Poconos) has drawn, arranged and printed his view of Spring animal life from below the water to the skies.

Also included is a full-scale numbered key to the approximately 100 animals, which would be most useful if it were double matted with the print and framed on both sides with plexiglass. The bright colors and inclusion of several modified green frogs creating a symphony of song makes this set particularly attractive for a young person, $10.

However the Princeton Gift Shop also once again has several of its favorites, such as the Spalding, Dunlop and Penn tennis-can thermos bottles. Each has a quart capacity and because they are the real thermos, all the parts are replaceable, $8.50.

Signs of Easter

Easter Eggs, none of them edible, come in various sizes and textures at Princeton Gift Shop. There are blown, hand-painted Ukrainian ones, hand-carved alabaster ones from Italy, small small calico covered eggs to hang on a tree, and white china ones painted with delicate flower sprigs, $1.50 to $2

Despite the advice not to put all your eggs in one basket, it remains the best way to carry them, and some of the above mixed with your own dyed eggs would be pretty in a white ceramic woven basket edged in green and finished with a pretty ribbon of your own choosing, $10.50

However, if you don't wish to fill your own basket, Princeton Gift shop already has a brown one containing a mixture of brown and white eggs (artificial so they'll last for many years) and tied with a brown gingham ribbon, $16.50

Then, naturally enough, Easter would not be complete without rabbits, and these range from small wooden ones sleeping in a nutshell to a pair of china ones sweetly nestled together, to a large handsome, hand-carved wooden mother rabbit wearing an orange felt dress and a checked apron, $3 to $18

The dedication of Princeton's meter maid is renowned, and so owner David Glen always has on hand a parking meter timer that can be set up to an hour. It fits on your key chain and should quickly pay for its $8.95 cost. Moreover, it's a marvelous present for anyone with a friend or relative who has a habit of collecting these tickets.

This is the time of year when most homeowners turn a critical eye around their properties and the exterior of their houses. If things are looking a little dull, perhaps a new planter, mailbox or outdoor thermometer in an off-white indestructible fiberglass decorated with song birds would brighten things up, priced from $5.

Then as a final thought, don't forget that Princeton Gift Shop always has a varied jewelry selection. Currently you'll find opal earrings, old-fashioned cameo rings, sculptured sterling cuff bracelets, American Indian squash blossoms and lucite pendants engraved with shells.

Located at 13 Palmer Square West, Princeton Gift Shop is open Monday through Saturday from 9 until 5.

POLLY'S HAS IDEAS

For The Easter Bunny. Pity the poor Easter bunny. For with just over a week left until his most important night of the year, he is surely staying up until the wee hours of the morning dying eggs and making chocolate rabbits so he'll have enough goodies for all the children's baskets.

One of his biggest helpers is Polly Lyons who last week was moving boxes and juggling shelf space to accommodate the many delicious things she has found this year to help you fill a child's basket.

Some of our choices from Polly's Fine Candies were chocolate eggs with pastel sugar coatings and delicate decorations of birds, chickens and bunnies; hollow chocolate eggs wrapped in multi-colored striped foil; Bunny Money; and a plastic chick containing a butter cream egg, 5 to 65 cents.

Our favorite however was a chocolate egg with white sugar coating and a prize inside. It was handmade in Italy and is so realistic that if you're not careful and mix it up with the real McCoy, you may be in for quite a breakfast surprise, 60 cents.

Also delightful are the colorful marzipan rabbits. One is driving a sports car, another is peering out of a red mushroom house, while a third is enjoying a large carrot, 30 cents to $1.25.

Polly, of course, has an incredible selection of eggs and rabbits. She said, "By the time I get all three kinds, -- dark, milk and white chocolate -- I have so much. But I must have this much, because I run out every time."

The eggs come filled with pecan fudge, coconut cream, butter cream, maple cream, fruit and nut, peanut butter or even a French truffle, and most of the tops are decorated with sugar frosting, 75 cents to $3.

The rabbits range from a four and a half ounce white rabbit to a large 12-ounce hollow milk chocolate one called Miss Pink, $1.20 to $3.50. In between are traditional ones in several sizes as well as a few more distinguished rabbits such as Mr. McGregor and Putt Putt Pete.

Jelly Beans, Galore. Then, naturally there are lots of jelly beans (or jelly eggs as they are called at this time of year.) You'll find pectin ones which are Polly's "hottest seller," spiced ones, old fashioned ones and tiny little ones, all $1.80 a pound. You'll also find solid milk chocolate and marshmallow eggs.

If you're going out for Easter dinner and wish to take a gift, one of the prettiest packages is Maillard's assortment of crystal cremes which contains rabbits, chicks and eggs in several Spring colors, $2.85.

Other suggestions include Blums' egg carton of marshmallow eggs dipped in milk chocolate or a small old-fashioned natural straw market basket which Polly has filled with French apples or strawberry candies, $1.50 each. These small baskets are also sold separately, 15 and 25 cents.

Then there is Polly's own brand of candy which includes chocolate coated bunny cookies as well as crystal cremes of decorated eggs, bunnies and large orange carrots.

This season also marks Passover and there are special cakes, pettifours, and candies for this too. For instance Barton's has a box of assorted candies, in addition to one containing milk chocolate Matzos.

Polly's Fine Candies at 63 Palmer Square West is open Monday through Saturday from 9:30 until 5.

Commercial-Residential Complex at Junction, Running to $35 Million, Could be Open in '79

Conceptual drawings were unveiled Tuesday at a press conference in West Windsor Township Hall by developers of a proposed land use plan for the Princeton Junction railroad station and adjoining parking areas. W.L. Bamberger Associates, Inc. of Cold Soring Harbor, L.I., have received approval in principle from the trustees of the Penn Central Railroad to buy the station and contiguous land and convert it into a prototype commercial and residential design.

Featured in the plan are:

- A motel of 200 to a possible 400 rooms with conference facilities, underground parking and supporting shops;
- Two new train facilities of the most modern design, with platforms at train entrance level, and with gift shops and book stores;
- A 15-story office and apartment complex with luxury apartments and business suites in a mix not yet determined;
- A multi-level parking garage, partly underground, with a hollow three-story core for escalators, surrounded by a plaza for commercial purposes and topped by a recreation complex, including tennis courts, swimming pool and sauna baths;
- An underground tunnel and enclosed over-track walkway connecting the two complexes;
- A railroad museum housing models and memorabilia.

Land Design Associates, also of Cold Spring Harbor, is the designer of the entire project which is described as a "Viable transportation core and an innovative land use concept for aging railroad facilities." Solar energy from roof-top collectors, conservation methods, such as "birming" the earth around the parking garage to conceal it and to conserve heat, and new building techniques have all been used in the plan.

Both Sides of Tracks. The 30-acre site under consideration lies on both sides of the Penn Central railroad tracks and includes one end of the Dinky line and a parking lot for over 400 cars recently built by the Department of Transportation and run by the West Windsor Parking Authority under a state law. The rest of the site is now covered by a congested parking area with space for about 1,200 cars which are taken by commuters.

The land is currently zoned for manufacturing and office use on the southbound side and research and office use on the northbound side. West Windsor has a 45-foot height restriction on buildings. The developers expect to meet with the Stony Brook Sewer authority shortly.

The new design would provide for an increase in parking to 4,136 spaces in open areas as well as in the multi-level parking garage. William L. Bamberger, president of W.L. Bamberger Associates, the developing company, does not anticipate increases in commuter parking fees "beyond that which an authority might be expected to levy to keep up with inflation."

SITE OF PROPOSED COMPLEX: The dotted lines enclose a 30-acre tract in Princeton Junction which W.L. Bamberger Associates of Cold Spring Harbor, L.I., has been granted approval from the U.S. Railroad Agency to purchase from Penn Central and develop. Planned for the northbound side of the tracks are a motel and conference center, e modern passenger station with related commercial outlets, passenger drop-off and pick-up areas and two levels of underground parking. On the southside e 15 story office end apartment complex is projected next to a multi-level parking facility which would accommodate 1900 cars and be topped with recreational facilities. A large open aree parking lot will bring the total available space to 4300.

The developers met with West Windsor Township officials at a work session on March 14 for a preliminary discussion of the plans. A public meeting will be held Monday at the West Windsor-Plainsboro School on Clarksville Road.

Cost: $30-35 Million. Estimated cost of construction is put at between $30 and $35 million with a possible $1 million in tax revenue going to West Windsor. The developers are currently seeking financing from major institutions and estimate that it could be a year before ground is broken and another two or three before occupancy. They plan to construct the parking facility first, using a shuttle bus or some other conveyance, to bring commuters to the trains.

According to Robert Manniello, coordinator of the project and a partner in Land Design, the Dinky line was included from the beginning in the formulation of the plans. He expects the Dinky could be used to a greater extent than ever before as a shuttle to and from Princeton and on to businesses on Route 1.

In the plan, the spur line runs right into the apartment-office building complex with its parking garage and plaza on the southbound side of the tracks. Mr. Manniello and Mr. Bamberger met with members of "Save-the-Dinky" committee last week and pledged to do "anything feasible" to keep the Dinky running.

In commenting on the reasons for selecting Princeton Junction for this "prototype" development, Mr. Bamberger noted that "the railroad is always going to be there, and all West Windsor has now is a parking problem." He feels the new complex will contribute ratables, create employment, help ecology and solve the parking and circulation problem.

Mr. Bamberger was formerly vice-president of real estate for Levitt and Sons, responsible for a 300-acre industrial park in Philadelphia. He and his partner, Thomas Alikas, are the major principals in the acquisition and expanded development of the 1,600-acre Haystack Recreational Community and Ski area in southern Vermont.

PHS SHUTOUT VICTIM

In Home Opener. Lawrence scored three runs in the second and three Cardinal hurlers limited Princeton High School to three hits Tuesday afternoon as the visitors spoiled the Little Tigers' opener, 4-0.

Southpaw Mike Boonin went all the way for PHS, striking out six. He was touched for seven hits.

PHS will next play Hightstown Friday afternoon at 3:45 on its home field and then oppose Lawrenceville School on Monday at St. Anthony on Tuesday. Both of those games are away, starting at 4.

PHS coach Jim O'Neill was satisfied with his team's fielding (two errors) and pitching but the hitting.... "We had no contact until the fifth inning," he said.

Boonin had control problems in the second when Lawrence bunched three hits but as O'Neill pointed out, "he got stronger as he went along. He had good control. I was happy with the way he pitched."

PHS was hitless until with two down in the fifth, Jim LaPlaca hit a drive just inside the left field line for a double but catcher Dave Seagers popped to first for the third out.

In the sixth, again with two down, Paul Soderman lined a single between third and short, but again a pop to the catcher by Scott Thompson ended the inning. Sophomore Al Kendall lined a shot over short to open the Little Tigers (final inning but Pete Rubando got Jim Lennon to pop to short, LaPlaca to ground out and then fanned Seagers for the final out.

Jack Oakley singled in two runs and catcher Bobby Sica drove in another in the second to provide Lawrence (1-0) with all the runs it needed. The visitors combined two singles, an error on Boonin and two bunt sacrifices for its fourth run in the seventh.

PDS NINE READY

For Season's Opener Thursday. Blessed with good pitching and more depth than it has ever had, the Princeton Day baseball team will attempt to get its season off on a winning note for once, when it meets Rutgers Prep at 4 this Thursday at home.

"We've never gotten off to a good start," commented coach Tom DeVito, earlier in the week. "But this year I think things will be different."

Entering his fourth year at the helm for the Panthers, DeVito has several reasons for optimism. The squad numbers 18, more than ever before (a few years ago, only 11 showed up) and many of these have been playing since their freshman year. He has at least six pitchers, he can call on, including those who will specialize in short or long relief work.

There is depth at other positions as well, enthusiasm is running high, and if the hitting comes along the Blue and White could qualify for a berth in the post-season playoffs.

A "B" division school, the Panthers' schedule is nonetheless includes 11 "A" division schools, and only five from their own division. One of the tougher games will come Monday, when PDS takes on Hun School away at 4 p.m.

Walters to Start. Sophomore Mike Walters, a lefthander, has been tabbed as the starting pitcher on Thursday and again on Monday if he does well. Another lefthander senior Mark Blaxill will also get plenty of action on the mound, as will two righthanded sophomores Dave Barondess and Frank Piccolella. Alan Johnson will most likely get work as a short relief man, while Quinn McCord will do longer relief stints.

"They are not overpowering, but they have control," DeVito says about his pitchers. Just getting the ball over the plate can be very important in high school ball.

The Panthers will be strong up the middle, starting with senior co-captain Scott Ware behind the plate, freshman Evan Press at second, senior Steve Baicher at shortstop, and senior co-captain Frank Konstantynowicz moving to centerfield, after two years at short.

Bill Baggitt, the third co-captain, will play first, and junior John Hickling will be around at third. Joining Konstantynowicz in the outfield will be Chris Szuter in left and either Blaxill or Walters in rightfield.

For reserve strength DeVito can count on Jay Nesblatt, a freshman, junior Chris Russo, sophomore Andy Sanford, Tim Dill and Tony Knott, a junior.

Some early wins, particularly one against Hun, could give the Panthers enough momentum to better last year's 8-7 mark by a wide margin.

TRENTON BLANKED, 5-0

By PHS Girls in Tennis. By the time many Trenton girls hold a tennis racket in their hand for the first time, their counterparts in Princeton are accomplished players. The difference surfaced quickly Monday as Princeton High School blanked Trenton High, 5-0.

PHS was overpowering in singles play. Both Karen Clark and Vera Jesser, the number one and two players for the Little Tigers, won their matches, 6-0, 6-0. Sophomore Lora Jaffin, a newcomer, was almost as effective, winning, 6-1, 6-0.

The visiting Red and Black enjoyed more success in doubles play, but the outcome was still the same. Ellie Rose and Leslie Krause won the number one doubles, 6-1, 7-5, while teammates Laurie Blum and Jane Arrington won the second doubles, 6-1, 6-4.

In exhibition matches, Jenny Southgate, Leigh Versfeld and Claudia LaPlaca of PHS all won. Ann Hackenberg playing a singles "pro-set" triumphed 8-1.

Coach Carol Wimberg's team will have to wait until the spring vacation is over, however, before it can carve another notch in its racket. The girls will not resume until an April 20th match against Lawrence High.

3 GAMES ON TAP

For Hun School Nine. Bill McQuade's Hun School baseball team will play three games this week, starting with a Saturday contest against experienced Ewing High School. Game-time at Ewing is 1 p.m.

On Monday, the Red and Black will entertain its crosstown rival Princeton Day School at 4 and on Wednesday it will play host to Friends Central in a 3:30 contest. This Wednesday afternoon, Hun was scheduled to oppose Girard in Philadelphia.

Voting Procedure Outlined.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Do you want to change your political party for purposes of voting in the primary election on June 8? If you do, you must declare your intention officially no later than April 19.

This is a new law, recently passed by the Legislature, and it may catch you if you don't watch out. That is, if you voted in the Democratic primary the last time you voted in a primary, and now want to vote in the Republican primary, or vice-versa, you must submit a declaration to this effect no later than April 19. This law applies no matter how long ago you last voted in a primary unless you have moved and reregistered since that primary vote, or unless you are voting for the first time.

The declaration may be submitted in several ways. The easiest way is to write the following statement: "I am a member of the (Democratic-Republican) Party." The statement must be signed and must include the voter's name, full address and the date. It should be mailed or taken to the municipal clerk of the municipality in which the voter lives, or to the Commissioner of Registration (if you live in Bergen, Essex, Hudson, Mercer, Monmouth or Passaic Counties), or the County Board of Elections (in all other counties) at the County Courthouse.

Another way to do this is to call your municipal clerk or appropriate county official and request that a declaration form be sent to you, which you can then fill out and return.

The primary elections on June 8 in New Jersey will be important. It is also important that all voters who wish to vote then should be properly registered. New Jersey Common Cause asked Governor Brendan Byrne to veto this bill on the grounds that it would make citizen participation in government more difficult, but since it is now law, we are trying to acquaint the voters with its provision so that no one will be prevented from voting through ignorance of the law.

Speed Traps Evaluated.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Speed traps are like other natural catastrophes, landslides and hailstorms. Every motorist knows that the law of averages will eventually catch up with him or her.

The unfortunate part is that the Princeton's speed traps never serve the purpose of being deterrents. Since, unless held up by traffic, few observe the 25-mile-an-hour posted speed limit; and since no one has ever been ticketed for driving 26 or 28 miles an hour, our town's speed traps do not enforce the law. Some day some one will establish through the courts that present speed traps are acts of discrimination.

The lesson the victim learns is that he or she has overstepped the leeway, usually set at from 5 to 10 miles over the limit. He or she, like the famous simile, has been guilty of being just a bit too pregnant.

Water's Taste Is Vile.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is a copy of a letter which I wrote to the Bureau of Potable Water, Department of Environmental Protection, Trenton, New Jersey, 08625, about the taste and odor quality of water now currently being supplied by Elizabethtown Water Company to Princeton consumers.

If any one of your readers has suffered nausea or discovered a flare-up of an old kidney problem and the like, I trust they will join me in writing to the State Agency or telephoning to their action line (609)292-7172. It is possible the quality of the water can be improved.

"I am a resident of and conduct a business within the borders of the Borough of Princeton, Mercer County, New Jersey. The Elizabethtown Water Company supplies water for both locations.

"For the last two weeks, the taste and odor of water being supplied for consumption by humans is objectionable in odor and vile in taste. Certainly an inspection by one of your personnel would clearly establish that the quality of the water supplied by Elizabethtown is in violation of N.J.A.C. Secs. 7:10-1.80 and 7:10-2.20. However, the services of a chemist will be required in order to confirm what my nose and stomach tells me.

"The local representative of Elizabethtown takes a philosophical approach to complaints, treating the admitted bad odor and taste as almost 'an act of God', and beyond his control. The only recommendation that a consumer receives is to let the water stand over night and possibly the odor and flavor will improve.

"If there is any other agency of the State of New Jersey or of the United States Government that would have more appropriate jurisdiction of this complaint, please let me know. Your attention to this matter will be greatly appreciated."

Program Continued.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

After reading your article concerning the extended kindergarten day (This is Princeton, Thursday, March 25, 1976), the kindergarten and K-1 teachers became quite disturbed at the misinformation that was given to the public. We also disagree with the definition of an extended kindergarten day.

In the spring of 1974 the kindergarten teachers of Princeton Regional School system, representatives from Princeton nursery schools, and Dr. Philip E. McPherson met to discuss the fact that the elementary schools were not offering the same number of hours to kindergarten children. It was decided at that meeting that the kindergarten day was to be four hours in all elementary schools. That decision extended the kindergarten day from the traditional two and one-half hours.

At a public meeting on June 11, 1974 Dr. McPherson asked that there be equal opportunity for kindergarten children through standard time periods. It was resolved that the Board of Education authorize elementary school principals to schedule an extended kindergarten day from 8:30 to 1:00 or from 10:00 to 2:40. The Board of Education also resolved to "...allow those teachers who desire to offer kindergarten age children the opportunity to stay a full day in school, provided this imposes no financial cost on the district."

We, at Riverside School, agree with Dr. McPherson's philosophy that there be equal time for all kindergarten children. Therefore, it is policy, not the teacher's decision, to give all kindergarten children an extended day.

We, too, believe that the elimination of the extended kindergarten day would be a serious loss. In fact, the extended kindergarten day originated in Riverside School when the K-1 program began here in 1971.

PHS Musical Successful.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Trustees of the Princeton Regional Scholarship Foundation wish to thank the many people who helped to make the benefit performance of "The Music Man" presented by Princeton High School Drama 76 a resounding success.

We deeply appreciate the work of the faculty and students. Also, we are grateful to parents, friends, merchants and business organizations who gave their support so generously.

We have had the pleasure of fine entertainment. We have had great assistance to our efforts to help the Class of 1976 students needing aid to continue their education in college, junior college or vocational school. For this, we extend our thanks to all.

Parole Program Essential.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

It has recently come to my attention that Governor Byrne's proposed budget for the fiscal year 1977, which commences July 1, 1976, will cut 93 positions from the staff of the Bureau of Parole. This represents a one-third reduction in personnel.

It is not clear why these cuts are being made. However, it appears that the reductions in parole staff are being proposed simply because Government leaders and members of the public do not fully understand the nature and quality of the services that Parole Officers perform.

As a former member of the Volunteers in Parole Program (VIPP) in Newark, I can testify from first-hand knowledge that the Bureau of Parole is staffed by extremely dedicated and conscientious individuals. They face staggering workloads and almost insurmountable problems. It would be a great shame if these individuals were not given the wholehearted support that they deserve.

Those interested in supporting our Parole Program are urgently requested to contact their State senators and assemblymen as soon as possible before the Joint Appropriations Committee passes on this matter.

News Of The CHURCHES

TWO LIST SERVICES

For Holy Week. Princeton's two Episcopal churches, Trinity and All Saints', will join to offer a wide range of traditional services in celebration of Holy Week, the events of which form the core of Christian belief. Beginning on Palm Sunday Eve, Saturday at 5:30, a traditional Blessing of the Palms and High Mass with the medieval Sarum liturgy will be celebrated at All Saints'. On Sunday both churches will hold Palm Sunday services; these will include the Blessing of the Palms, procession and Holy Eucharist.

All Saints' will be the setting for the service of Tenebrae on Holy Wednesday, April 14, at 8 p.m. This service was used in monasteries and parish churches in the Middle Ages and consists of psalms, lessons and the dramatic darkening of the church to represent the death of Christ, the return of light being the sign of his Resurrection.

Maundy Thursday, April 15, is the day set aside to commemorate the institution of the Holy Communion by Christ. On this day, the liturgy of the Eucharist, the Foot Washing and the Procession to the Altar of Repose will be held in both parish churches at 8 p.m.

Good Friday is the recalling of the death of Jesus. All Saints', the Princeton Theological Seminary and Trinity will jointly hold the Three Hours Service from 12 noon to 3 at Trinity Church. Dr. John Cooper of the Seminary and Father Orley Swartzentruber of All Saints' will be the preachers. At 8 p.m., a joint celebration of the Solemn Liturgy, the oldest rite of Good Friday, will be held at All Saints'. This ancient service consists of the Singing of the Passion, the Veneration of the Cross and the Liturgy of the Presanctified Gifts.

The climax of Holy Week is reached on Easter Even, Saturday, April 17, with the Easter Vigil and First Eucharist of the Resurrection. Trinity will begin its vigil at 8 p.m. and All Saints' at 10 p.m. Both churches will also celebrate with regular services on Easter Day.

FOOD DAY SET

By N.J. CROP. Thursday has been designated Food Day in New Jersey with an official proclamation by Governor Byrne at the urging of New Jersey CROP, the Community Hunger Appeal of Church World Service which is located in Rocky Hill, and the New Jersey Council of Churches.

The day will start with marathon runners from the north and south running ten mile legs that will end in Trenton at the First Baptist Church at 7. Northern runners will carry water and the southern runners will carry rice. The two will be put together to make the Third World Meal to which senators and legislators have been invited.

The folk singer Harry Chapin will sing at the gathering in support of legislation to help end poverty and hunger in the world.

RECITAL SATURDAY

At Church Lunch. The Women's Association of Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church will hold a benefit Spring Festival, a luncheon and vocal recital, Saturday at 1 in the Palmer Room of the Nassau Inn.

Barry White, a student minister of the church, will present a program of works by Samuel Barber, Verdi, Donizetti, Mozart and Handel. He will be accompanied by Mary H. Sweazey.

Barry White

A native of Detroit, Mich., Mr. White gave his first recital at age 4. He has appeared in concerts throughout the country and has received many awards, including a Trade Union Leadership Council Award for Excellence in Music as well as a House Resolution from the Michigan State Legislature.

He graduated from Wayne State University at age 18 with a B.A. in English, the youngest student to matriculate at University. A licensed minister in the National Baptist Convention, he is a student in the Master of Divinity program at Princeton Seminary. He has studied voice with Ouida White and Carlotta Franzel and is currently a student of Mary Thompson.

Tickets at $12.50 are available from Corrine Steinline at 924-1265 or Sarah Harris, 924-2518.

The Church Choir of the Bunker Hill Lutheran Church of Griggstown will present a concert "Alleluia" on Palm Sunday at 7 p.m.

The Griggstown Reformed Church Choir will present Jack Coleman's "The Centurion" Sunday at 7:30. This is a cantata which tells the Easter story through the eyes of the one responsible for Christ's flogging and nailing to the cross.

Featured soloists will be Donald Grant, Beverly Stitzel, Colin Lancaster, Richard Knudsen and Betty Faber; Larry Aasheim will be at the organ.

The Hansberry Arts Company of the Youth Center will hold a Bake and Rummage Sale Saturday from 10 to 6 at the Youth Center, 102 Witherspoon Street.

OBITUARIES

Frederic H. Harbison

Dr. Frederic H. Harbison, 63, of 159 Hartley Avenue, died April 5 of a heart attack while on a business trip to New York City. He was Roger Williams Straus Professor of Human Relations and Professor of Economics and International Affairs at Princeton University.

A well-known educator, arbitrator and consultant in the field of industrial relations and manpower economics, Dr. Harbison had been a member of the Princeton faculty since 1955 and had served as director of the University's Industrial Relations Section from 1955 until 1968.

Dr. William G. Bowen, President of Princeton University, said of him,

"Fred Harbison, or 'Fizz', as he was known to so many friends, was not just a leader in his own field of work and a great teacher, though he was both of these things. He was an extraordinary human being, warm and generous, always able to find time for others, always anxious to help, always ready to do more than his share. The University has lost an outstanding faculty member who was known all over the world for his work in education and in human resource development; beyond that, many of us have lost a very special friend."

Dean J. Douglas Brown, Provost and Dean of the Faculty, Emeritus, said,

"For 40 years, Fred Harbison proved that creative teaching and creative scholarship were mutually reinforcing. He made labor economics a branch of the humanities through his deep insights into the people of the world. His enthusiasm in the attack upon the problems of human relations in both teaching and research was unquenchable."

Dr. Harbison was a native of Sewickley, Pa., who earned his undergraduate and graduate degrees at Princeton and served for 15 years on the faculty of the University of Chicago. In addition to holding the rank of Professor of Industrial Relations there, he was Executive Officer of the University's Industrial Relations Center.

In addition to his teaching, Dr. Harbison had been a consultant to the U.S. Department of State, the U.S. Department of Labor, the Agency for International Development, the International Labor Organization, the United Nations, UNESCO, and the Organization of American States. He worked on manpower and education projects for the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation of New York.

From 1957 to 1970, Dr. Harbison served as chairman of the New Jersey State Mediation Board and, in 1966, was a member of Governor Rockefeller's Commission on Public Employee Relations which established the guidelines for New York's so-called "Taylor Law."

A member of the National Academy of Education, the American Philosophical Society, the National Academy of Arbitrators, the Industrial Relations Research Association and Phi Beta Kappa, Dr. Harbison was for 15 years a member of the Board of Trustees of the American University in Cairo.

The author of "Human Resources as the Wealth of Nations," he also co-authored

Old Burying Ground on Washington Road, Itself Now Buried in Vines, Will Undergo Restoration

CEMETERY CLEAN-UP: Gathered in the Schenck-Covenhoven Cemetery off Washington Road are (from left) David Parris, Scoutmaster of Troop 45 in Penns Neck; Bruce Westcott, trustee of the cemetery; Peter Oort of Troop 43 in Princeton; Helen Chase, chairman of the West Windsor Landmarks Committee; Barbara Miller and Ted Rose of Interact Club; and Bruce French, trustee of the cemetery and the Historical Society.

Motorists entering or leaving Princeton by Washington Road are largely unaware of a walled-in cemetery in the fields near where the site of the annual Hospital Fete. But there on a breezy knoll with a fine view of the open farming terrain to the south and the spires of the University rising above trees to the north is one of the oldest burial grounds in the area.

Known as the Schenck-Covenhoven Cemetery, for the two families who owned and farmed the surrounding lands and set aside a portion for a family burial plot, the once picturesque spot is today a tangle of honeysuckle and poison ivy vines. Vandalized markers have been broken off from their bases and junk trees are growing in unwanted places.

As trustee of the Penns Neck Cemetery Association and in cooperation with the West Windsor Landmarks Committee, the Historical Society is sponsoring a restoration of the cemetery. Several organizations and youth groups have volunteered to help in the clean-up, which is scheduled to begin Saturday and continue on the next two Saturdays in April.

The cemetery is located on 6,500 acres bought in 1737 by Garret Roelofse Schenck and his cousin, John Van Couwenhoven, from the heirs of William Penn, for whom Penns Neck is named. Extending from the Millstone River on the east to Duck Pond Run near Quaker Bridge Road, and from Stony Brook (Lake Carnegie) on the north to Bear Swamp (Princeton Junction) to the south, the land is presently in West Windsor Township. The two cousins settled their sons in alternate tracts like the squares of a checker board. The Van Couwenhoven name has appeared in various forms -- Kouwenhoven, Covenhoven, and later Conover.

Running through the land was the old Dutch Road, which antedated the New Brunswick turnpike and ran due east and west, at an angle with the present Route 1. The headstones in the cemetery, laid out in north-south rows, also face east and west. The surrounding wall, which was built in 1876 by Eliza Tilton Schenck, a great-great-granddaughter of Garret, was squared with Washington Road and Route 1.

Penns Neck Cemetery. Beginning in 1812 portions of the cemetery were deeded by members of the family to be held in trust as a burial ground for residents of Penns Neck. In 1877 a meeting was held at the house of Thomas Jewell which was the original Schenck homestead and on whose farm the cemetery lay, to form the Penns Neck Cemetery Association. James H. Wikoff, a prominent Princeton physician, was appointed chairman and the number of trustees fixed at six.

John V.B. Wikoff, an attorney, succeeded his father, but the Schenck and Conover families had died off or moved away and it became difficult to hold to the original plans for trustees. John V.B. Wikoff urged the University to buy

TRIANGLE CONNECTION?

"Mugs Money": Beware. All that money in the box-office from last year's Triangle Club show was just too much, and Triangle now warns darkly that mobsters are moving in, using Triangle as the – uh – legitimate front for illegitimate activities.

The mob plans to take over the entire McCarter Theatre – or so Triangle hopes, eyeing last year's ticket sales – on Thursday, April 29, for the premiere of Triangle's 87th production, "Mugs Money" and you probably thought we'd never get around to telling you the name of the show.

Tickets may be extorted from the McCarter box-office: 921-8700. "Mugs" will play that weekend: Friday, April 30, and Saturday and Sunday, May 1 and 2, all at 8:30.

INGMAR

"Scenes from a Marriage." "Bergman is examining the molecular structure of a human relationship," writes New York Times critic Vincent Canby of "Scenes from a Marriage." "You think you've seen it before, but every time you see it, it's new, which is one of the things about love."

The 1974 Ingmar Bergman film will be shown twice at McCarter this week-end -- 8 p.m. Friday and the same hour Saturday. Because the film is 163 minutes long, it will be shown only once each evening.

Liv Ullmann and Erland Josephson star. The film was conceived as a six-part series for Swedish television, and is divided into six scenes which follow a middle-class couple over ten years of marriage. Infidelity, disintegration, separation, divorce and a kind of reunion, are all examined in the course of the film.

"SHAMPOO"

At McCarter. Hairdresser, hustler, stud, lover -- that's George, the hairdresser, as played by Warren Beatty in Beatty's own film, "Shampoo," due at McCarter for a pair of showings -- 7 and 9 p.m. -- next Tuesday.

George, whose personal services are not limited to hairdressing, has such customers as Julie Christie, Goldie Hawn and Lee Grant. Lee just won the '75 Academy Award for Best Supporting Actress award for this performance.

"Shampoo" replaces "Phantom of Liberty" in the Movies-at-McCarter series. The Luis Bunuel film will be shown next season.

SLEEPY SUNDAY?

Try Jazz. Late Sunday afternoon, a "downer" kind of time, is responding these weekends to the upbeat of a five-man combo playing all those good old songs -- and a lot of good new ones -- in the Yankee Doodle Room of the Nassau Inn. Hours are 4 p.m. until 7 p.m.

For a $3 cover charge, you can sit and listen (and sip -- the Nass won't mind a bit) to Charlie Naylor, first pianist with Claude Thornhill and arranger for Fred Waring; Harold Karabell, lead saxophonist with Artie Shaw; Don Lane, first trumpet with the original Glenn Miller band; Tony Dinicola, drummer with Harry James and Johnny Ellis, a bass who has played with many of the big bands.

VARIETY

In Experimental Evening. Robin Lehman, whose latest short won an Oscar last week, will be represented by "Sea Creatures," an exploration of life in and under the sea, when McCarter screens its annual evening of experimental films next Saturday, April 17. Showings start at 8 p.m. Because many of the films contain nude sequences and other elements which some theatre-goers find offensive, McCarter will not admit anyone under 18.

One film with "adult elements" is James Herbert's "Glass." The Herbert style combines pointillist painting, the manner of Thomas Eakins and even the early experiments of 19th-century photographers. Herbert's films are all silent.

In "The Concert," Claude Chagrin spoofs a real concert and stars as the maestro whose dressing room is a telephone booth and whose keyboard is the bands of a crosswalk. The Italian animator Bruno Bozzetto has chosen mosquitoes as the subject of "Self-Service" and animator Fred Mogubgub has selected Hamlet's "to be, or not to be" for "Enter, Hamlet."

In "Chicken Soup," Ken Schneider presents a documentary in which the love of a Jewish woman and her husband, their religion -- and the soup -- are all celebrated.

Intime's New Play about Ireland 'Timely, Honest and Suspenseful'

When I am totally absorbed in watching a play, I find it hard later to decide how much credit belongs to the production and how much to the play itself. "We're On The One Road," currently to be seen at Murray Theatre, is such a play. Theatre Intime has given it a first-rate production, with much credit owing to the director, Philomena Muinzer, and an able cast; but director and cast owe a considerable debt to the author – Philomena Muinzer again -- for providing a timely, honest, suspenseful play peopled by genuinely real, sharply individualized characters.

Miss Muinzer, a student at Princeton who grew up in Ulster, knows whereof she writes. Her play reflects the hopelessness of living a normal life amid the unreasoning fury of the Catholic-Protestant conflict in northern Ireland.

The action takes place in a middle-class living-room in Belfast, and the time is now. Sporadic gunfire in the streets, as well as the clashing prejudices of the three young people whom we get to know best, remind us that civil violence is their daily bread.

Even the two factions of the I.R.A. -- official and provisional – are bitterly at odds. And everybody hates the British soldiers.

Fundamental Honesty. But the play is not a political tract, nor a shooting drama. Its particular honesty lies in the natural behavior in unnatural circumstances of young Carmel McCavana and the teen-aged fugitive, Rory Gormley, and the slightly older girl, Bernie Mooney. Though men are being gunned down in the streets, to Carmel the smoking of a forbidden cigarette is momently as important.

Horseplay and awkward tenderness mingle naturally with political arguments and recriminations about who is teachers' pet at school. A moment of terror at the street window coincides with the sound of a comedy program coming over the telly.

Outstanding in the way this play has been directed is the extraordinary vigor of the action. Young people move even when they sit. Feet automatically rest on tables. Quarreling brothers lift each other off the ground and then let go.

Topping it all is a scene in which British soldiers (where did Intime muster so much beef?) search the house for Rory. With cheerful brutality they ransack the room as I have never seen a room ransacked on the stage.

The Author's Viewpoint? Alexa Hunter plays the central role of the 17-year old schoolgirl Carmel: In her frustration at the senseless bombing and maiming all around her she speaks, I judge, for the author, but her Carmel is a thoroughly believable girl. Her idealism, her annoyances, her sense of fun, her fears are all real.

Christopher Schram, as Rory, is fascinating to watch. His youthful brashness, his restless posturing and tough talk, his mixture of defiance and helplessness are marks of a strongly remembered (or else strongly imagined) character.

Ellen Eifrig creates another vivid original as Bernie, the sophisticated, self-assured, militant young woman who breaks up Carmel's hopes of smuggling Rory safely across the border. The other actors contribute mightily to a production which never lets down.

The set by Jon Paine, the lighting by Charles Stone, and the costumes by Alice Kipel combine to enhance the reality of the play. When the house lights came up, one spectator was heard to say, "I know I have been somewhere." That

"somewhere" was closer to Belfast, Ireland, than to Princeton, New Jersey.

"We're On The One Road" will play three performances this weekend, from Thursday through Saturday at 8:30. As a new play by a University undergraduate, and as a reminder to our peaceful community of what life amid civil war may be like, it is worth seeing.

HELP REPAIR SEATS

In Murray Theatre. No needle or hammer needed – just money. Theatre Intime's final production of the season, "The Marriage of Bette and Boo," will have a benefit performance Wednesday, April 21 at 8:30 p.m. in Murray Theatre, and the price of your ticket will help refurbish the theatre.

After the performance, there will be a reception in honor of Christopher Durang, who wrote the play. He is the current CBS Fellow in playwriting at the Yale Repertory Theatre, and author of "Titanic," which recently opened in New York.

Theatre Intime hopes to raise enough money to reupholster and repair the old seats in the theatre, lay down new flooring in the Peking Room and buy new furniture for the room, and revamp the light board.

A donation of $10 – checks made payable to Theatre Intime Equipment Fund – will give you one ticket to the play and admission to the reception.

"The Marriage of Bette and Boo" will open formally the next night, Thursday, April 22, and will continue that weekend and Friday, April 30 and Saturday, May 1.

In his comedy, Playwright Durang explores what seems to be an average American family and finds that all is not so average and normal as one might think. Bette and Boo, progressing through marriage, encounter all kinds of situations -- amusing, poignant, unpleasant..

Intime actors Winnie Holzman and Kathy Shenton will be making their final Intime appearances in this production. Others in the cast will be Margaret Emory, who played Mika in Intime's "Lysistrata," and Geoff Rich, currently in "We're on the One Road."

Four Trustees Added

McCarter has expanded its Board of Trustees from 15 members to 20 and has announced the appointment of four new trustees as the first step toward meeting the 20-member goal.

New members are New Jersey State Senator Anne C. Martindell; Arthur P. Morgan, vice-president of Princeton Bank and Trust; Geoffrey Nunes, vice-president and legal counsel of Lenox, Inc. -- all of Princeton – and Kenneth W. Gemmill, attorney with Dechert, Price and Rhoads of Philadelphia and former assistant to the secretary of the U.S. Treasury.

The McCarter Associates, the theatre's volunteer organization, is joining with the theatre in a fund-raising campaign, hoping to raise $120,000 to meet the financial needs of the coming season. Information on membership in the Associates may be obtained by calling 452-6122.

COMEDY CONTINUES

In Pennington. "6 Rms Riv Vu" by Bob Randall will be presented for the second weekend, Friday and Saturday at 8:30 in Heritage Hall, Pennington Presbyterian Church.

The Pennington Players, who are staging the show, start their 25th anniversary year celebration with this comedy. Their next show will be "Fiddler on the Roof", which will be presented in the Open Air Theatre of Washington Crossing State Park in July.

'PINOCCHIO' SCHEDULED

By Creative Theatre. Creative Theatre Unlimited's advanced workshop for grades 6-9 will present "Pinocchio," a play for all ages. With a minimum of sets and props, the characters come alive, involving the audience in Pinocchio's adventures as he endeavors to change from a marionette into a "real, live boy."

"Pinocchio" will be presented Friday at 7:30 and Saturday at 3 at Trinity Church, 33 Mercer Street. Admission is free.

FUNGI DANCE?

Pilobulus Does. The only dance group named for a fungus – so its members say – will appear again in Princeton when Pilobolus performs at McCarter Tuesday, April 20, at 8 p.m.

Princeton audiences will see two new ensemble works: "Ciona," danced by the entire ensemble, and "Untitled," which stirred up some dust recently during Pilobolus' recent tour because it is performed partially in the nude.

Pilobolus will also present compositions that are familiar to those who have seen the group before. These are "Ocellus" and "Walklyndon." A new solo, "Vagabond" and a new duet, "Alraune," will be on the program as well.

RAFTERS WILL ROCK

To Loggins and Messina. Rock it is, at Jadwin Gym the night of Saturday, May 15, at 8 p.m. when Loggins and Messina's rock band move

Many people forget that health comes from within as well as from without. A balanced diet, fresh air and sunshine, proper rest, soap and water, a good cleansing cream, a wholesome environment and, if necessary, medical treatment, should be first on the list for skin care. Then cosmetic preparations can be used without harm. Cold creams have been used since the Roman days. They are available for softening the skin, particularly if dry, and for removing some dirt particles.

MONTEVERDI WORK SET

For First Princeton Performance. As far as is known, the "Vespers of 1610" by the famous Baroque Italian composer Claudio Monteverdi, will be receiving its first Princeton performance on the occasion of the Albert Milbank and Elizabeth Milbank Anderson Memorial Concert in the Princeton University Chapel at 2:30 p.m., Sunday, April 11.

Both the longest and the most celebrated of Monteverdi's sacred compositions, the "Vespers" has been performed rarely because of its difficulty and the forces demanded. The Princeton University Chapel Choir, conducted by Professor Walter Nollner, will perform the work as both a single and double chorus, depending on the movement.

A sextet of soloists will sing other portions of the work, sometimes from the Chancel with organ and instrumental accompaniment, sometimes from the bottom of the Chancel steps with harpsichord accompaniment. The chants used as Antiphons to the work will be performed by the Princeton University Schola Cantorum, directed by John Brosseau, a senior music major at the University, and one of the University Organists.

The instrumentalists will include two separate string groups, with Nadia Koutzen, resident of Princeton and famous concert violinist, acting as concertmistress, three trumpets, three trombones, and two recorders.

Most of the instrumentalists are Princeton University students, but also playing in the orchestra are Barbara Sue White, viola, and Willard Cottrell, bassoon, both Princeton residents.

The vocal soloists include, in addition to Choir members, Lester Erich and Thomas Farracco, tenors and students at the Westminster Choir College.

The hour-and-a-half long Monteverdi work is made up of the psalm texts of the Roman Catholic vespers, set for chorus, soloists, organ and orchestra, interspersed with shorter "concerti" for soloists and harpsichord. The concert is open to the public, and admission is free.

FROM PRESERVATION HALL..... straight to Alexander Hall. A familiar route, by now, for the vigorous senior musicians in the Preservation Hall Jazz Band. They'll play at 8 p.m. this Friday and Saturday.

PREMIERE PLANNED

Of Song Cycle on Virginia Woolf. The Princeton premiere of Dominick Argento's "From the Diary of Virginia Woolf," a song cycle for mezzo soprano and piano, will take place Friday at 8 in the Princeton Inn College Lounge. The work was commissioned by the Schubert Club of St. Paul, Minn. and first performed in Minneapolis last year. It is based on eight extracts from Virginia Woolf's private journals.

A New York Times review of a Carnegie Hall performance earlier this year called it "an interesting and frequently haunting work" which won a 1975 Pulitzer prize for music. The New Yorker critic called it "a beautiful, moving and masterly work."

Judith Nicosia, soprano, and pianist William Cheadle will be the featured performers in the concert, which is part of a two-day series of lectures, discussion and workshop on Virginia Woolf in Her Cultural Context Friday and Saturday at Princeton Inn. The events sponsored by the Princeton Inn, the English Department, the Clark Foundation Lecture Series and the Women's Center. All are free and open to the public.

has planned two concerts for the coming week, the fourth and final Organ Event on Monday and a classical cello recital with piano accompaniment on Tuesday.

The Organ Event will be a lecture Monday at 5:30 in Bristol Chapel by Westminster graduate, Barbara Owen, on "The American Organ." She will trace the history of the organ from its simple beginnings in the early 18th century to the present day. Miss Owen holds both bachelor and master of music degrees from Westminster and has been with C.B. Fisk, Inc., organ builders since 1961.

David Finckel will present the cello recital Tuesday at 8 in the Playhouse, accompanied by Andrew Willis. Mr. Finckel made his debut with the Philadelphia Orchestra as a student competition winner invited by Eugene Ormandy and he has appeared with nearly all the major orchestras in New Jersey, his home state. He played for Mstislav Rostropovich at age 17 and has since continued to be under the Soviet virtuoso's tutelage.

YOUTH CONCERT SET

N.J. Symphony to Play at PDS. Almost 1500 Princeton area children are in for a musical treat Friday morning when the full 80-piece New Jersey Symphony Orchestra strikes up a program especially keyed to youthful listeners.

Associate Conductor Jesse Levine has chosen a program of symphonic music for dance and mime called "Let's Dance!" In the Walter Damrosch tradition, Mr. Levine will guide the young audience through the rich range of Brahms' Hungarian Dance No. 3, Mozart's Minuet in G Minor, the Gavotte from Bach's Suite No. 3, and the Golden Age Polka by Shostakovich. The finale will feature two young actors from Connecticut's Childrens Theater interpreting, in mime, Rossini's William Tell Overture.

First, second and third grade students, arriving by bus, car and foot from Princeton Regional Schools, from every private school in the Borough and Township as well as from the Pennington Grammar School, the Maurice Hawk Elementary School in Princeton Junction and from Montgomery Township's Burnt Hill Road School, will converge on the Princeton Day School gym for one of two back-to-back concerts, each lasting about 45 minutes.

This concert, made possible by a special grant from the First National Bank of Princeton, is also sponsored by the Princeton Bank and Trust Company and Nassau Savings and Loan. Additional funding of 50 cents per child comes from school field trip allowances.

Coordinating all arrangements is Mrs. Henry A.G. King, educational chairman of the Princeton area New Jersey Symphony Orchestra League. Her committee includes Mrs. James Q. Griffin, Mrs. David Reeves and Mrs. Lucius Wilmerding III. The Princeton area chapter, formed a year ago, is headed by Mrs. Gavin Hildick-Smith.

FOLKSINGER HERE

In Concert Friday. Ed Trickett will appear on Friday, at 8:15 p.m. at the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church, Witherspoon and Quarry Streets, in a concert sponsored by the Princeton Folk Music Society. Admission is $2.50 general, $2 student, and $1.50 members. There are no advance ticket sales.

For further information call 882-5531.

MUSIC CLUB TO MEET

Next Wednesday. The Music Club of Princeton will meet on next Wednesday at 8:30 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Scheide, 133 Library Place.

The program will feature Frank Martin's Sonata da Chiesa, with Dorothy Kovacs, flute; James Litton, organ; "Despite and Still", a song cycle by Samuel Barber, with Cheryl Chang, soprano; Clarence Chang, piano; Beethoven's Sonata in A major, Op. 69, with Elizabeth Lamb, cello; Clarence Chang, piano; Schubert's Impromptu in Gb major, Op. 90, No. 3, William H. Scheide, piano.

A highlight of the evening will be a performance on organ with commentary by Mr. Scheide of 14 newly-discovered canons by J. S. Bach. The canons were discovered in 1975 by Mr. Scheide, a noted Bach scholar and interpreter.

The band has been built around the singing and song-writing talents of Kenny Loggins and Jim Messina.

Snow May 29

If you have May 1 tickets for the Phoebe Snow concert you may exchange them at McCarter's box-office. The new Phoebe Snow date is Saturday, May 29, and the place has been changed as well as the date; the concert has now been scheduled for McCarter Theatre.

There will still be two shows – 7:30 and 11 p.m. – and jazzman David Sanborn is still planning to appear on the program.

GARDEN

Gable and Lombard. If you have fond memories of "the King" and Carole Lombard, don't spoil them by seeing this soap-opera version. It's definitely not the real thing.

The zest, vitality and charm that made Gable and Lombard star attractions are sadly overlooked. What we have instead is a lackluster account of their meeting and stormy romance that supposedly rocked the movie industry and almost ruined their careers, a pallid retelling in a kind of far magazine prose that reduces the two stars to mere shadows. Except for opening and closing scenes, the film is one long flashback.

Jill Clayburg as Lombard spouts plenty of vulgarities but little of the real Lombard's wit; as Gable, James Brolin struggles with keeping up a macho image.

Both the real two were strong-willed but against the backdrop of a sun-soaked Hollywood, the film reduces their squabbles to the level of domestic bickering. They struggle with each other's shortcomings, with the pressures exerted by studio heads, with the sham of concealing their affair and with Brolin's difficulty in obtaining a divorce. And whenever the going gets too tough, which is often in this sudser, they head for the nearest bed like a pair of continually oversexed adolescents. Whatever chemistry existed between the real-life couple is strictly hormonal here.

In fairness to Clayburgh and Brolin, probably no one could have captured the charm of the legendary duo – and with the soap opera material they are presented with it is impossible. Gable and Lombard would have heartily disapproved.

of re-cylced newspapers, magazines, tin cans, aluminum cans, green and brown glass and clear glass, have saved Princeton.

$1,589.76

At $8.28 a ton, that's what it costs to bury trash in Princeton's own dump. Re-cylced, it doesn't have to be buried. The more you leave in the Township's new re-cycling shed in the Shopping Center, the more you save as a taxpayer. From October 20, when the shed opened to February 20, Princeton families toook 192 tons to the shed It's in the Township, but Borough families are welcome, too. Remember: the Borough doesn't pick up metal any more, so the shed is a good place for your beer cans, soda cans, tomato juice cans.

The Man Who Does It All

Michael Lancaster is the entrepeneur. He carts the glass to a glass factory in south Jersey where it's reprocessed into—glass. He takes metal cans to a scrap dealer once a month.

Reynolds gets the aluminum.

Newsprint is made into—newsprint.

For a time, magazines were not accepted because dyes aren't recyclable. But resourceful Mr. Lancaster found a buyer who takes old magazines and makes wallboard out of them—the dye doesn't matter.

Incidentally, Mr. Lancaster has just informed the Township that he wants to pay for the cost of the shed at $100 a month. The cost was about $1,400 (the planters . . . soon to bloom with petunias? . . . were extra).

"What a town!" Mr. Lancaster exclaimed one day. "Really dedicated to re-cylcing. And all the cans are washed!"

How It's Been Going

It started big, then dwindled: 16 tons the first two weeks, then down to a 13½ ton low. Shot up at Christmas-time to 28½ tons the first two weeks in December. Low right after Christmas. The December 29 to January 9 a whizzing 32½ tons. Cold and icy days brought it back down to 17, now it's around 25 tons for each two-week period.

The Shed Is Open

- Bins are clearly labeled.
- No traffic problem. Plenty of parking space while you unload the cemetery and the adjoining fields, but it was not until the 1940's that the University acted on his advice.

In 1969 a cousin wrote the Historical Society and asked them to re-activate the trusteeship. The present trustees include Walter A. Fullam, president; Bruce French, secretary; Bruce Westcott, Albert Busselle and Lucius Wilmerding. A vacancy was created by the death recently of Joseph Delafield, and the Association is looking for a descendant to fill it.

The Schenck-Covenhoven cemetery contains over 100 graves dating from 1746. Some of them are marked by brown sandstone markers with primitively sketched names, some with flat marble tablets. There are a few Hights, (for whom Hightstown was named) and buried there, as well as Cruisers, Stouts, Smiths and VanDykes, all of whom were related by marriage to either the Schenck or the Couwenhoven (Conover) families.

Bicentennial Project. It seems an appropriate Bicentennial project for the Historical Society and the West Windsor Landmarks committee to undertake once again a thorough restoration of this early burial ground. Woodwinds tree surgeons have volunteered to cut down the trees which are uprooting the wall and the chipped brush will be used for mulch to keep down further growth.

Three scout groups from Princeton, three from West Windsor and the Interact Club, a social service youth group of the Princeton Rotary, have volunteered to spend the next two Saturdays clearing the weeds and vines and preparing the soil for planting. The Garden Club of Princeton has donated myrtle to be planted as a ground cover on April 24, and Anderson Nurseries in Princeton Junction has agreed to supply plant materials for around the walls.

The University will contribute additional wood chips, the West Windsor Volunteer Fire Company has offered use of its fire truck to water the new plants and Princeton Nurseries to spray any remaining poison ivy. Scout troop 88 plans to provide continued maintenance next fall and spring.

Anyone is welcome to come pitch in on the next three Saturdays in this clean-up but is cautioned to wear gloves, long-sleeved shirt and long pants against the poison ivy and is asked to bring shovels and clippers.

RESTORATION PROJECT: This old marble tablet was in place less than a year ago. Volunteers and contributions are sought by the Historical Society to clear the weeds, plant new ground cover and repair and restore the wall and the markers in the Schenck-Covenhoven graveyard.

Although plans are well underway for most aspects of the restoration, the stone-wall surrounding the cemetery needs rebuilding and pointing and to have its coping repaired. The cost is estimated at over $3,000. In order to complete the project, the gravestones which have been knocked from their bases should also be replaced.

The Historical Society is looking for funds with which to complete the work, or even better, a descendent who is a mason and who might be interested in volunteering time or materials. These early Dutch settlers were prolific, and there are many Conovers, Crusers and Stouts in today's telephone book who are in all probability related to the two Schenck-Van Couwenhoven cousins.

Contributions may be sent to the Historical Society at 158 Nassau Street, and volunteers for the clean-up or for the restoration of the wall may call Bruce Westcott at 452-1163 or Helen Chase 799-1053.

DISCUSSION PLANNED

On "T and E" Education Here. The YWCA Committee on Public Affairs and Racial Justice will hold the third in its series of luncheon discussions on Public Education Friday, 12:15 at the YM-YWCA, Avalon Place. Open to the public, it will deal with "The Impact of Thorough and Efficient Education on an Affluent Community."

The speakers will be Mrs. Marion Epstein and Joseph Moore. Mrs. Epstein is a member of the New Jersey State Board of Education, liason between that board and the State Board of Higher Education, and Director of Statistics and Systems for the College Board Program at ETS. Mr. Moore is Director of the New Jersey Education Reform Project in Newark, which is sponsored by the National Urban Coalition, and has been Assistant Dean of Students at Princeton University.

Mothers may use the YWCA nursery for children ages 1 through 5. For luncheon reservations call 924-4825, ext. 13.

PROGRAM RENEWED

For English Exchange Students. Town and gown will collaborate this weekend to show 50 British exchange students a good time and an American college campus.

Scattered at independent secondary schools throughout the country as two or three-term English-Speaking Union Exchange Scholars, the visitors will gather in Nassau Hall Friday evening to lead off the weekend with some Revolutionary-era history. The British students, who will go on to British universities when they return home next fall, will stay with undergraduates through Sunday for a taste of campus life.

The program was held last year for the first time and was so well received that the sponsoring Princeton English-Speaking Union branch and organizing undergraduates decided to make it an annual tradition. The idea for the affair came from senior Charles Bell and junior John Fox, who each spent years in England at "public" (private secondary) schools on the reciprocal part of the E-SU exchange. They had enjoyed a similar gathering at Cambridge University during their year's study. Princeton's E-SU branch is "twinned" with the Cambridge branch.

E-SU members here will share hospitality duties with the undergraduates. The weekend agenda includes a lecture by English Department Chairman A. Walton Litz, seeing rugby played American-style, and sampling the university Pub.

The weekend is intended to give the British students, who are separated in the U.S. by unaccustomed distances, a chance to compare notes on their American experiences, as well as to renew old friendships with former American exchange students, make new ones, and enjoy the April beauty of the Princeton campus and community.

REGISTRATION IN MAY

For Kindergarten Pupils. The Princeton Regional Schools has scheduled registration of children eligible for kindergarten entrance in September on May 4, 5, and 6 from 8:30 until noon at each school, and on May 5 from 7 until 9 p.m. at Valley Road for all schools.

Children who will be 5 on or before November 30, 1976, are eligible. At time of registration, parents are required to bring their child's birth certificate and medical records.

ART
In Princeton

THE SPRING SCENE

At Squibb Gallery. The passage of a half century often obscures the quality of an original artistic statement because of the years of imitation that follow. Five decades of derivative painting, often by competent artists, can mask the quality of the statement of an earlier work and convert it into a retrospective cliche for the viewer. Generations of imitators often obscure the freshness of an eartier work by borrowing another artist's thoughts.

Time and imitation make it difficult to make judgments about the Max Bohm exhibit at the Squibb Galleries. There is a sense of the familiar that occurs while viewing these monumental renditions of life situations. However, Bohm's paint and color as well as his ability to structure works that are evocative and aesthetically pleasing make this an exhibit worth careful consideration.

NOSTALGIA ON VIEW: Late 19th century study of lawn tennis included in the English watercolor and drawing collection on display at the Drawing Room.

At the time that Bohm began to paint, the art world was divided into conflicting schools. Victorian painters in England were turning out romantic, literary, often overworked and uninspired paintings to please the untutored populace. At the same time a group of innovative French painters were reexamining existing forms and creating a new structure for painting by redefining the use of color and paint and what might be considered acceptable subject matter.

Bohm's work appears to be a blend of many of the elements of both schools. Familiar, often literary subjects are rendered in painterly fashion with brushwork and color devetopment that is carefully considered and visually exciting. Space is arranged in a sophisticated fashion creating a structure that transcends the subject without interfering with the subjective mood. The size of the paintings, often larger than life, intensifies the effect by creating a sense of both literary and technical drama.

At Gallery 100. A specific list of criteria is often used for judging art. Color, form, pattern and balance can be evaluated on some kind of formal scale. It is, however, possible to handle specific elements in a competent fashion and not come up with good art.

The collection of paintings, prints and drawings by Ann Woolfolk performs the unusual by providing the additional intangible that creates good art. Woolfolk handles her elements well, using color and space in a consistently well-developed manner adding the additional level of visual dynamism and technical nuance which elevates competent art into a rich viewing experience.

Drawings that offer a literal view of their subject are accompanied by prints and paintings that rely on color and form for their statement. In both areas the artist controls her work successfully and develops a spatial dynamism that is pleasing to contemplate.

Intricate drawings interpret subjects into textual area and lyrical patterns. Familiar views become well structured tonal designs through the development of pattern and sensitivity to designs and harmonies that are usually hidden.

In silkscreen prints and acrylic paintings design and color are foremost. Spaces are carefully developed and color and tone interact to create rich optical experiences.

Watercolors by Joy Barth are included in the present display. The artist uses her medium in a fluid manner and heightens the effects of her paint by working on a variety of surfaces. Watercolor paper, rice paper, absorbent paper and various textured surfaces are employed with varying results. The effects are rich, enhancing the stronger works and compensating in the less developed paintings.

Florals, landscape and figurative works are included. Barth's techniques are particularly successful in the landscapes where additional surface texture and softened silhouettes created by her techniques enrich the compositions.

At the Drawing Room. "The Spring Exhibition of Water Colours and Drawings by English Artists of the 19th Century" reflects the interests and styles of the era. Landscape, figurative works and nature studies are rendered in pencil, ink, chalks and several watercolour techniques.

A few carefully wrought studies of seashells and botanicals contrast with small fluid wash studies and sensitive, sparse, architectural landscapes. Whimsical cartoons and political satire, as well as records of travel in foreign climes, reveal the habits and tastes of the gentlemen who were the artists and illustrators of the period. Included are works by Arthur Rackham, Sir George Hayter, Sir Charles D'Oyly and James Duffield Harding.

At the Eye For Art. The Eye for Art is featuring the works of a young artist, Barbara Burdell. The exhibition includes figure studies, landscape and still life rendered in a realistic manner. Similar subjects are explored in oils, water color, pen and ink, wash studies and pastels.

The collection includes recent and earlier works and as such, includes varying levels of technical sophistication. Burdell is

EXHIBIT TO OPEN

Saturday at McCarter. "Color as an Aspect of Mood", the Princeton Art Association's new exhibit at McCarter Theater, will open on Saturday, with a reception honoring exhibitors from 5 to 7.

An invitation, mixed media show, it includes graphics, oils, watercolors, wall sculpture, weavings and photography by artists from the Princeton-Delaware Valley area and from New York City.

The show will hang through May 3.

Juried Watercolor Show. The Art Association has announced delivery dates for its annual Juried Watercolor Show, which will hang at McCarter Theater from May 9 to June 4. The competition is open to member and non-member artists.

Up to three entries in aqua media may be submitted, and they are due for delivery at the PAA's studio headquarters, Ettl Farm, Rosedale Road, on Friday, April 30 and Saturday, May 1, from 10 to 1. The show will be judged by watercolorist Vincent Ceglia.

The Art Association will sponsor a trip to the National Academy of Art in New York for the 109th annual exhibition of the American Watercolor Society, on Thursday, April 22. A bus will leave the Princeton Shopping Center at 9:30. Information about the trip may be obtained by phoning the PAA at 921-9173.

Wolf Kahn, Vermont landscape artist, will conduct a four-day painting workshop at the Princeton Art Association, Ettl Farm, Rosedale Road, from Thursday, April 29 through Sunday, May 2.

Daily painting sessions will be held outdoors, weather permitting, from 9:30 until 3. A lecture and slide show on Friday, April 30 at 8 p.m., and a critique of participants' work will be included in the workshop.

Registration for the special session will be limited, and reservations may be made by calling the Art Association (609-921-9173). Fee for the entire workshop is $50 for members. Non-members may enroll as space allows for an additional registration fee, or by taking out membership in the Association at time of registration.

The Friday evening lecture will be open to members and non-members for $1.50. This will be the second workshop which Mr. Kahn has conducted for the P.A.A.

Mr. Kahn's paintings and pastels are shown regularly at the Grace Borgenicht Gallery in New York, and he has had one-man shows at the Princeton Gallery of Fine Art, which represents him in this area. His work has also been reproduced in books and art magazines. Born in Germany, he came to this country in 1940 and studied with Hans Hofmann, whose color theories are evidenced in his impressionistic landscapes. Barns and the pastoral Vermont scene are treated in a highly individual and distinctive way in his work.

EXHIBITION EXTENDED

At Speer Library. The exhibition of Gwyneth King Brown's "Drawings About War" at Speer Library on the Princeton Theological Seminary campus has been extended to April 15.

The charcoal expressions of the futility of war have drawn critical acclaim from such diverse commentators as Dore Schary, Pearl S. Buck and Van Wyck Brooks. The public is invited to the show during regular Library hours.

ARTIST TO COMPETE

For Benedictine Art Award. Constance Mason of 34 Crescent Avenue, Rocky Hill, has entered an original painting in the 14th annual Benedictine Art Awards, a national competition sponsored by Benedictine Liqueur and inspired by the art collection at the Abbey of the same name in Fecamp, France.

To compete for one of the 35 cash awards and the opportunity to have the work exhibited in a special show at the Manufacturers Hanover Trust Gallery in New York City, she entered a painting of her choice of style but one which had to contain a recognizable representation of a Benedictine bottle.

changes the immunization requirements for pupils in New Jersey schools. Pupils may not be admitted without the following immunizations:

Diphtheria toxoid, pertussis vaccine and tetanus; toxoid combination (DPT) 4 doses; Oral Polio (3 doses - trivalent); Measles Vaccine (Live given after 1 year of age); Rubella.

Many measles vaccines are given in combination with mumps vaccine. Reports of any additional immunizations beyond the required are requested. Forms may be requested from any elementary school office.

SALE AT HUN SCHOOL

By Rhododendron Society. The American Rhododendron Society will hold its annual sale of rare rhododendrons and azaleas Saturday, April 24, from 9 to 3 at the Hun School, rain or shine. A large selection of dwarf, semi-dwarf and standard rhododendron hybrids will be available in shades of red, pink, white, purple, lavender, blue and even yellow.

The selection will include products of famous plant breeders such as Dexter, Gable and Shammarello, even the famous Wada form of R. Yakusimanum. A number of unusual azaleas will also be featured, including some with striped blooms.

The Princeton Chapter of the Society, a non-profit organization, plans to use the proceeds to support the chapter's various activities and to maintain and enlarge its display garden which was recently moved to the grounds of the Mercer Community College.

Louis B. Mraw of Trenton is the sale chairman. All plants will be sold on a first come first served basis, and chapter members will be available to give advice on planting and culture.

CANCER CRUSADE SET

PDS Students to Solicit. Princeton Day School students will again represent the American Cancer Society during April, which is Cancer Control Month, by calling on every home in the Borough on Saturday between 9 and 12. The students will ask for contributions and will hand out life saving literature. Residents are urged to have their contributions ready.

Because of the high cancer death rates recently reported in New Jersey, a special urgency attends this year's crusade. According to Helen Hamilton of 126 Jefferson Road, chairman for Mercer County, if every Borough resident contributed $1, the goal of $5,000 could almost be tripled. PDS students have given their time for the past five years to this cause.

The goal for the Township is $6,000. The Interact Group of the Rotary Club and other volunteers will make some personal calls, and other residents will be solicited by mail. Dollars are needed to help "Wipe Out Cancer in Your Lifetime."

LEAGUE SETS MEETINGS

On Human Resources. The League of Women Voters of the Princeton area will hold its April units during the week of April 19-22. The Unit topic is Human Resources, focusing on the 1975 Federal and State regulations adopted to implement existing legislation guaranteeing public school children equal opportunity regardless of race, color, creed, religion, sex, ancestry, national origin, social or economic status.

The Princeton League includes four school districts; Hillsborough, Montgomery, Princeton and West Windsor. Members of the League have interviewed the four Affirmative Action officers appointed by their School Boards to determine where each school stands in reference to the new regulations. The League is interested in helping the schools locate and eliminate bias in the areas of employment, curriculum, textbooks, counseling, extra-curricular activities, and inservice training for staff.

The April units will discuss the results of these interviews, concentrating on the examination of textbooks for sex bias which excludes girls or stereotypes them in damaging ways. A slide presentation "Images of Males and Females in Elementary Textbooks" will be included in the Unit. The public is invited. The times and places may be found in the Calendar of The Week.

William L. Wilson of 225 Jefferson Road is the author of a book, "Full Faith and Credit: The Story of C.I.T. Financial Corporation 1908-1975," which has just been published by Random House. Mr. Wilson is a former Township Mayor and former president of the School Board.

He retired from C.I.T. in 1973 as vice-president, public relations, after 33 years with the company. For two years after his retirement, he was engaged in research and preparation of the book, which is the story of the company's founding by Henry Ittleson and how it grew from a small, privately-held enterprise into a giant diversified corporation. Mr. Wilson used the corporate archives he founded soon after joining the company and taped reminiscences.

The managers of C.I.T. were among the pioneers who created the mechanism of time-payment buying and selling to revolutionize the production, distribution and consumption patterns of the nation. Full treatment is given to the controversies that raged for more than two generations concerning the moral and economic legitimacy of consumer installment credit.

The book is a thorough study of the forces and decisions that produced one of the world's largest multiline financial service organizations with a strong foothold in financing, leasing, banking, insurance and manufacturing. Mr. Wilson presents in rich detail profiles of the men who had major roles in shaping and leading the company. It is also an economic history of the century, beginning with the Depression of 1907-8, and continuing through two World Wars and the Great Depression to the cross currents of the sixties and seventies.

Mrs. Kathleen Dwyer, director of the perceptual training program at the Hun School, has received an extended grant to develop programs for students with learning disabilities in Belgium. Elaine Kendall, a former Heather Lane resident now living in California has written the recently published book, "Peculiar Institutions, an Informal History of the Seven Sister Colleges." According to the New York Times' reviewer, "Elaine Kendall is positive that the time for such separate-but-equal elite education is past. She delivers her valedictory with an often perceptive wit and some cynical punch lines that are likely to send the dragons of the alumnae associations into a cacophonous twitter."

A Mount Holyoke graduate herself, Mrs. Kendall is the wife of Herbert Kendall, a real estate developer from whom Kendall Park gets its name.

Nancy Waal, 28 Cameron Court, was among students who received sophomore honors in the College of Letters and Science at the University of Wisoncisn-Madison. Honors are awarded to students who receive grade point averages of 3-point or better on a 4-point scale and meet credit requirements.

The Atlantic Area Coast Guard Commander praised the Vigorous with a "well done" for their performance during the seizure. The Coast Guard Cutter Vigorous is homeported in New London, Conn.

Tiger Nine to Begin League Play This Weekend; Rowing Season Opens on Carnegie with Rutgers

The opening of the Eastern Intercollegiate League season for Princeton's baseball team, the first regatta of the rowing season and a pair of tennis matches will provide spectators with a varied spring sports menu this weekend.

Rutgers and Princeton will compete for the Logg Cup Saturday on Lake Carnegie. Rowing the Olympic distance of 2,000 meters, the two varsity shells will leave the stake boats at 4 o'clock, finishing somewhere between six and seven minutes later depending on wind conditions.

The first of three races is scheduled for 3:30 between the freshmen of the two universities. Second varsity oarsmen will then compete at 3:45.

Yale and Brown will furnish the opposition in both baseball and tennis Friday and Saturday, with the matches on the University Courts starting at 3 Friday and 2 o'clock the following afternoon. A 5-4 victory over a strong North Carolina team last week gave the Tigers a successful home opening for the new season.

3 LEAGUE GAMES HERE

Against Yale and Brown. Two teams which Princeton defeated handily last spring, and which are currently lodged in the Eastern Baseball League basement, will be the Tiger nine's first opponents in the race this season. Yale will play on Clarke Field Friday at 3, with Brown due for a doubleheader Saturday at 1.

If rain interferes, any postponement will be made up Sunday. At New Haven a year ago, the Tigers were 9-1 victors, and then knocked off the Bruins at Providence, 14-0 and 8-2.

On the strength and depth of its pitching staff, Princeton should take all three games. Mark Softy, senior righthander who is off to an impressive start this season, is in all likelihood the best pitcher in the league.

Against three strong opponents, he has hurled 27 innings, allowed two runs, a dozen hits and fanned 23. The defeat in his 2-1 record was a 1-0 shutout on an unearned run. Probable starters with him this weekend are senior Mike French and junior Bob Tufts, the former credited with a two-year earned run average of 1.91.

Back-to-Back Shutouts. Last week's scheduled opener with Fordham was postponed by Thursday's rain, but Friday saw Softy hurl a 6-0 shutout against a strong Montclair State nine. Limiting the hard-hitting visitors to six hits, Softy worked his way out of three bases-loaded situations in the first five innings as his control was occasionally faulty, but apple-pie in the clutch.

The Orange and Black collected 10 hits highlighted by a pair of doubles and a long triple, the latter by first baseman Jeff French. The two-base blows by catcher Kevin Plunkett and right fielder Paul Pecka produced three runs as the Tigers shook —temporarily, at least—last year's costly habit of leaving countless runners aboard. Plunkett, the Eastern League batting champion, led the attack with three hits in four at bats.

Saturday's contest with Rochester was a 16-0 laugher, Mike Franch scattering eight hits while preserving the shutout with the aid of good support afield. The victors' 13 hits, including a bases-loaded double and a triple by second baseman Kevin Kaufman, were supplemented by seven Rochester errors.

The game was marked by three unusual incidents:

- An hour's delay at the outset because the umpires had been notified to appear at 3 rather than 2 p.m.
- A Rochester runner being thrown out at the plate from third on a single to the outfield because left fielder Greg Adams decoyed him into a late start by pantomiming that he could catch the soft line drive. When he took it on the hop and threw a strike to the plate, the runner was out before he started his slide.
- The Tigers sending ten men to bat, seven of them scoring, before a man was retired in the fourth inning.

SPORTS In Princeton

The nine-run round gave them a 12-0 lead before the game had run the official five-inning length.

The Tigers' power at the plate was stilled Monday by Seton Hall, which may currently just be the best ball team in the East. A five-run sixth for the Pirates led them to an easy 6-1 triumph.

The victors pounded out a dozen hits, twice the number Princeton made, with Bob Tufts absorbing the loss. The Tigers' lone run came in the fifth, when Kaufman's sacrifice fly drove home Pecka, but the 1-1 deadlock it earned failed to last until they came to bat again.

The first contest of a home-and-home series with Rutgers at New Brunswick was on the schedule Wednesday. Mid-week games with Villanova next Wednesday and Manhattan Thursday -- both at 3 o'clock will keep the Tiger pitching staff busy.

League action resumes Saturday, the 17th, against Navy. The doubleheader with the midshipmen will begin at 1.

1VY SEASON AHEAD

For Tiger Lacrosse Team. No better than 1-3 early in the season, and unlikely to beat Navy at Annapolis Saturday, Princeton's lacrosse team is hopeful that action in the Ivy League will be more suitable to its ability. The Tigers will play their first game next Wednesday at Providence against Brown, which they defeated last spring, 15 to 10.

About all the 16-10 loss to Johns Hopkins here last Saturday proved was that Princeton could score in the second half. A week earlier, the Orange and Black had failed to produce a goal in the final two periods against Maryland.

Backed by a band, several hundred followers and a cannon that greeted each of its goals, Johns Hopkins quickly broke the game open after the intermission. The Bluejays were no better than 7-5 after two periods, but took charge quickly when play resumed.

The visitors' lead mounted to 12-5, those reloading the cannon occasionally working frantically to be ready for the next goal. Wick Sollers, a junior whose 61 points last spring gives him a good foundation for breaking the all-time Princeton scoring record, led the Tiger attack with three goals.

Ralph "Bo" Willis amassed 147 points to record the Tigers' all-time mark during his career from 1951-53. Sollers should move into the top ten all-time scorers within the next week, before his junior season is half over.

FINE RECORD COMPILED

By Princeton In Winter Sports. A .686 winning percentage in men's varsity sports made the winter season highly successful for Princeton athletes. Women, competing in basketball, squash and swimming, had an even higher mark – .756.

The Tigers won the Ivy basketball title, the Eastern Seaboard Championships in swimming for the fourth straight year, and the intercollegiate six-man championship in squash. They tied for first place with Harvard in Eastern League swimming, and were runners-up in Ivy squash and wrestling. Only hockey, with a 7-16-1 mark, was below the breakeven point.

The women's basketball team also won the Ivy title, as well as the Eastern Regional small college playoffs. The women's squash team won the Howe Cup, symbolic of the national title, for the fourth

SPORTS FANS! I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you By John Bernard

One of the most amazing stories of courage in sports concerns the great golfer, Ben Hogan ... In 1949 his legs, hips and pelvis were badly injured in an accident, and doctors doubted he'd ever walk again, let alone play competitive golf ... But Hogan would not give up, and to the surprise of everyone he entered the 1950 U.S. Open ... Playing in pain and with bandages over much of his body, he outplayed the greatest golfers in the world and won the Open that year, and the next year!

Here's an oddity ... Baseball people always say that pitching is about 75 percent of the game – yet last year Los Angeles led the National League in the pitching statistics and Baltimore led the American League in pitching, but neither team won the pennant.

Oddly enough, the former big league baseball player known today as "Home Run" Baker actually never hit many homers! ... Home Run Baker played in the majors from 1908 to 1921 and got his nickname because he once hit two homers in a World Series -- and the name stuck with him even though he never hit many home runs before or after that.

year in a row. In action against other Ivy colleges 13 times, Princeton women were never beaten.

PHS IS EASY WINNER

In Track. Led by strong performances by Tony Strong, Randy Bullock and Fred Berkelhammer, the Princeton High School track team defeated visiting St. Anthony, 83-48, Monday in its first dual meet of the season.

Next week, the boys will be at Bridgewater-Raritan West on Tuesday, while the girls track team will participate in a tri-meet with Delaware Valley and Rancocas Valley on Monday and then play host to Notre Dame on Wednesday.

Bullock won the 220 dash in 23.4 and was second in the 100 (10.6) and high jump (5-8). Berkelhammer, a three-year man, won the discus with a toss of 110-¼, the high jump with a leap of 5-10 and was second in the long jump and third in the 330-yard low hurdles.

Strong captured the 100-yard dash in 10.5 and was second in the 440; Royce Flippin won the mile in a clocking of 4:37.4 – 30 seconds faster than his nearest rival, teammate Mark Riddel. PHS also won the mile relay.

The Little Tigers dominated the field events, winning the javelin behind a 153-6 toss by Rich Mosley, the pole vault and the shot put. Mark Slafkovsky led a St. Anthony sweep of the 120 high hurdles and also won the long jump.

OFF AND RUNNING

PHS Netmen Win, 5-0. Coach Joe Diefenbach's debut as head coach of the Princeton High School tennis team was a highly successful one Monday as his team easily outclassed Trenton High School in its opener, 5-0.

"It was fairly easy," said Diefenbach, but we have a tough match coming up against Christian Brothers. PHS will tangle with CB Academy Thursday at Toms River. They are a defending state champion. This Wednesday, PHS was scheduled to meet rival Princeton Day School at 3:45 at the PHS courts.

The home team Tornadoes never won more than two sets in any match. Seniors Dan Aronovic, playing the number one singles, and Steve Eversole, number two, won their matches, 6-1, 6-1, and 6-1, 6-0. Andre Eichenberger, a junior and the number three singles, swept through his match, 6-0, 6-0.

Sophomore Allen Aronovic teamed up with senior David Bowen to win the number one doubles match, 6-1, 6-1. The number two PHS pairing of Louis Snijders and Mike Loew triumphed, 6-2, 6-1.

When it was all over, Diefenbach admitted, "It's nice to start off with a win."

PHS WINS HIGH JUMP

In County Relay Meet. Competing in the annual Mercer County Relay Meet held Saturday at Rider College, Princeton High school captured a first in one of the 14 events by taking the high jump with a combined performance of 16-10, five inches better than second-place Trenton.

Ken Bullock had a leap of 6-2 to lead the PHS trio that included Fred Berkelhammer and Chris Elden. PHS finished third in both the 440 relay and two and one-half mile relay.

Trenton, which won seven of eight running events to dominate the meet, finished on top in the team standings with 62 points. Hamilton (33) was second and Ewing (27) third. PHS finished seventh among the 11 contenders with 14 points.

The powerful Tornadoes set meet records in the shuttle hurdle relay, 440 relay, 880 relay and, as expected, in the shot put. Trenton's distance of 146-8 was seven feet, ten inches better than the previous meet record set two years ago by Hamilton.

A fifth meet record was established in the pole vault by Hamilton, which had a combined height of 34-6. The old record was 32-6.

NEW OPPONENT DUE

For PHS in Lacrosse. At least the Princeton High School lacrosse team knew what it was up against in its opener Saturday against visiting Montclair.

The Little Tigers had to contend with defending state champion Montclair which won its second in a row easily, 14-2. But the Little Tigers' next opponent, newcomer Cinnaminson, is a mystery to coach Bill Cirullo. The two will meet here Thursday at 3:30 on the PHS football field.

"I never heard anything bout them," said Cirullo, who dded that his inquiries from er coaches drew an equal nk.

Monday at 3, PHS will play ost to Peddie. Peddie lost its opener to Montclair, 6-4, and Cirullo was quick to acknowledge that the Old Blue and Gold "is going to be tough this year."

Against Montclair, Cirullo said that he felt his team had played good lacrosse in the first half. PHS trailed, 6-1, at intermission, its lone goal coming off the stick of Morgan Mohrman when PHS had an extra man.

"We played well, we had very few penalties and we played as good and solid a defense as we were capable of," said Cirullo, "but in the econd half they started nning their patterns and ey just overpowered us. ey have a very strong club. ness," Cirullo said, "that's t of playing last year's e champion."

Bobby Campbell scored Princeton's other goal. PHS had an extra man on three occasions and managed to score on two of them, one of the few bright spots Cirullo could point to.

Commenting further on the opener, Cirullo said: "It's the kind of a game in which we learned something of our potential. At the end of the first half, we realized we had a pretty fair lacrosse team.

"We had a long talk after the loss and the kids realized they were ready to get to work. They were optimistic. You couldn't ask for more after a 14-2 defeat."

The scheduled Thursday opener with Pingry was rained out and Cirullo reported that attempts will be made to try to reschedule the contest later in the season.

NEW SEASON BEGINS

For Carnegie Sailing Club. The Carnegie Sailing Club's spring season began Sunday and will continue through June 10.

Two fleets are racing this season, Lasers and Sunfish. Winners last weekend in the Laser class were Doug Boone and Art Gossard, who tied for first place; in the Sunfish class, Dick Jesser took all four races, with Ed Metcalf and his son capturing second place.

Sunfish and Laser sailors in the Princeton area are invited to join the club and to participate in all kinds of weather. Races start at 1330 while the clock is on Standard Time; at 1400 during Daylight Time. The Carnegie Sailing Club commodore is John Henderson.

TOURNAMENT HELD

For Junior Tennis Players. Princeton University varsity tennis players joined forces with the Princeton Community Tennis Program's advanced junior players on Sunday at Jadwin Gym.

The three-hour tournament provided a special finale for the junior group's winter ladder matches. The doubles competition was designed to give each young player a varsity partner and the groups were divided into two teams.

The Advanced Training Program winter ladder matches were held in two groups. Participating in one group were top contenders: Carrie Kopelman, Richard Klubeck, Jonathan Drabek, Ted Rose, Debbie Garb, Muffy Ellis, Jamie Hughes, Richard Diefenderfer, Tricia Keeler, Diane Aronovic and Lesley Kraut.

PAA SWIMMERS BUSY

During the Weekend. Members of the Princeton Aquatic Association were busy during the weekend, taking part in three meets.

In the New Jersey Age Group Championships held Saturday and Sunday in the Peddie School pool, Ann Wawczak and Bob Hoedemaker combined for 27 of its team's 51 points.

Wawczak, swimming in the girls 10 and under class, compiled 14 points by finishing fifth in the 50 freestyle, 50 backstroke, 100 back, 100 breaststroke, 200 freestyle and sixth in the 100 free and 50 breast.

Hoedemaker added 13 points with thirds in the 100 free and 100 butterfly, fifths in the 50 free and 100 breast and a sixth in the 200 individual medley. He competes in the 15-18 division.

A third in the 100 breast and a fourth in the 200 breast earned seven points for Judy Wolfson in the girls 13-14 class. Meredith Van Pelt, 15-18, finished third and sixth in the 200 and 100 back respectively for five points while David Hayden, 11-12, took a fourth in the 50 back and sixth in the 50 free for four points. Also scoring points were Sandy Danielson, John Healey, Karen Clarke, Suzanne Fischer and Guy Dorgan.

In a YMCA Invitational meet held Sunday at the Lakeland Hills YMCA, the PAA boys 100-yard freestyle relay team of Arthur Seaman, Ronny Epstein, David Dolotta and Tim McDougald won first place. Their time in the 8 and under event was 1:04.0.

Brent Matheson finished second in the 25-yard backstroke. Awards were presented to the first ten finishers in each of the 25-yard events.

In a "B" weekend meet held at the Ridgewood Y and Dolphin Aquatic Club, Charley Bolster, 11-12, won the 100-yard IM in 1:12.9 and placed third in the 100-yard free.

Robbie Hovsepian swam the 50-yard breast in 40.3 to take a third place ribbon.

BADGES AVAILABLE

For West Windsor Tennis. The West Windsor Recreation Commission has announced that 1976 tennis badges may be secured at either the town hall on Cranbury Road or at the library in Dutch Neck Center by showing proof of West Windsor residence and donating $1 for each badge secured. Badges will be required to play on the West Windsor township courts and on the high school courts when they are not being used by the school system.

Also at the town hall and the library are forms for the spring leagues with eight different events being offered for township residents. These events are free with an April 15 deadline set for entering the events. Donations for badges at the library must be paid by check so that it will be as simple as possible for the library personnel. Checks should be made out to West Windsor Township - Tennis Badges.
